Southern Democrats Threaten To Take Dixie Votes From Truman

House Tax Cut Bill Faces Senate Delay

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—The senate put the Republican tax cutting bill on ice today.

The bill may stay in the cooler for two months or more.

And when it does come up for a senate vote, it probably will call for less than the $6,500,000,000 cut overwhelmingly approved by the house.

The GOP measure rocketed through the house yesterday by a 297 to 120 count. That is 19 votes more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. Only one Republican—Rep. H. Carl Anderson of Minnesota—voted against it. Sixty-three Democrats voted for it.

But Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, told reporters he doubts that the senate will be able to override a veto unless the amount of revenue loss is reduced.

Taft did not say how much of a reduction he thinks will be necessary. But some leading Democrats predicted that if the bill is held down to around $4,000,000,000 any presidential objections will be overturned.

In any event the senate is going to wait until the senate-house budget committee takes a whack at President Truman's proposal to spend $39,700,000,000 during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Senate Republicans are aiming at a cut of at least $3,000,000,000 in the budget estimates, but some party members have said they may not be able to meet that goal.

Hearings Delayed

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) said the senate finance committee will not even open hearings on the house-approved bill until the budget committee reports. This report is due by Feb. 15.

Action by the full senate probably will be delayed until after a vote on the Marshall plan for European recovery. This may put off a final tax showdown until April.

Whenever the bill is passed however, and providing a veto is overridden, the cuts will date back to Jan. 1. Any overpayments in the meantime would be refunded.

Senator George (Ga), top ranking Democrat on the finance committee, voiced the view that if the Republicans hold their tax cut to about $4,000,000,000 "there would be enough votes to enact it into law over a veto, if there is one."

Rep. Doughton (D) of North Carolina, senior Democrat on the tax-writing house ways and means committee, made a similar prediction.

Doughton, while supporting "reasonable tax reduction, said a $6,500,000,000 cut might set the treasury back to keeping its books with red ink.

What Bill Will Do:

As it passed the house yesterday, the bill would grant tax reductions ranging from 100 per cent to those in the lowest income groups to 10 per cent in the upper brackets. It would remove 7,400,000 low income persons from the rolls completely.

Specifically, it would:

1. Raise personal exemptions by $100, from $500 to $600.

2. Allow husbands and wives in all states to split the family income for tax purposes, thus permitting lower tax rates.

3. Grant percentage cuts ranging from 30 per cent in the low brackets to 10 per cent in the upper bracket.

4. Give special exemptions to persons 65 and over and to the blind.

Before it passed that bill yesterday, the house beat down 258 to 159 a Democratic substitute. The Democrats sought to cut individual taxes by $4,000,000,000 and to recover all but $800,000,000 of the revenue lost by a new $3,200,000,000 excess profits levy on corporations.

In presenting their substitute the Democrats threw overboard Mr. Truman's proposal for a $40 per person tax cut, but used his excess profits plan.

Ohioans Vote Along Party Lines

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Ohio's house delegation voted along strict party lines on the Knutson tax reduction bill.

The state's 19 Republican representatives were for it yesterday, and the four Democrats against it. The bill went to the senate, 297 to 120.

Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, a Republican, said the vote should "suggest to the President that the American people are determined to have tax reduction." But Rep. Robert Crosser, a Democrat, quickly described the bill as "too big a reduction in view of financial problems" facing the nation.

Ohioans voted this way:

Republicans for: Bender, Bolton, Brehm, Brown, Burke, Carson, Clevenger, Elston, Griffiths, Hess, Jenkins, McCowen, McCulloch, Ramey, Smith (Frederick C. Smith of Marion), Lewis, Vorys, Weichel, McGregor.

Democrats against: Crosser Feighan, Korwan, Huber.

Bender said the bill was "a good bill—why even many Democrats thought so and voted for it." Both he and Brown predicted any presidential veto would be overridden.

CLOUDY, COLDER FORECAST ISSUED

Gas Situation in Marion Area Unchanged.

"Partly cloudy and colder" weather for tonight for Marion and nearby was the forecast issued today by the Columbus weather bureau after a rise to degrees above the zero zone, during the last two days. According to the forecast, Wednesday is to be cloudy and cold with occasional snow.

A check with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. office here this morning showed no change in the critical gas fuel shortage. Families and operators of business places are still being asked to keep temperatures in homes, stores and offices as low as possible.

The low temperature recorded here between 8 a. m. yesterday and the same hour today was 14, with the high registering at 34. At noon today, the thermometer stood at 24. A year ago today, the high was 48 and the low 18.

The midwest section of the country, not given a chance to thaw out from the frigid blasts of last week, got more icy temperatures combined with snow and freezing rain today, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Some of the inclement weather, the dispatch stated, was headed for the east and the New England states.

Temperatures dropped far below zero in several midwest states—and Montana—as a fresh mass of cold air from central Canada moved into the Arctic Red River valley region.

PAROLEE WHO FORGED PRISON CHECKS HELD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3 — An ex-convict, wanted for questioning in connection with the forging of $1,400 in checks on the Ohio penitentiary, has been picked up in Richmond, Va., the state welfare department said today.

He is Willis Jacobs, 42, a convicted forger who worked in the prison chief clerk's office before he was paroled last Nov. 20.

The welfare department said Jacobs took with him 12 of the penitentiary's printed checks. Seven of them since have been forged, Warden Frank D. Henderson said.

One check, for $103.60, was cashed at East Liverpool after Jacobs told Sheriff George Hayes of Columbiana county that it represented "back pay" from the penitentiary, the sheriff said.

Jacobs, who formerly lived at Sebring, O., was sentenced from Cleveland in 1944 to serve one to 20 years for forgery.

The welfare department said Richmond police seized Jacobs on a grand larceny charge. If he is not prosecuted in Virginia, he will be returned as a parole violator to Ohio.

Prison officials said losses from the checks would not be absorbed by the state.

Jacobs previously served terms in Texas and Georgia for forgery and embezzlement, the welfare department reported.

WALDO DAM DIKE BIDS TO BE OPENED FEB. 16

Army engineers will open bids Feb. 16 for construction of the Delaware dam flood control dike at Waldo, The Associated Press reported today.

The Corps of Engineers district office at Huntington, W. Va., had previously announced bids would be opened on the Waldo project Feb. 2. No explanation was given for the postponement.

TWO HOMES IN MARION AREA SWEPT BY FIRE

3 Firemen Injured Fighting Ashley Blaze; Marion House Badly Charred.

Two homes in Marion and vicinity were partially destroyed by fire yesterday, one the Virgil Crabtree home near the north corporation line of the city.

The other was the Hartmann-Miller farm home on the Westfield pike four miles northeast of Ashley. In this fire three Ashley firemen were injured.

In a third fire a home on Quarry street was slightly damaged.

Damage to the Crabtree home, located on the Bucyrus pike near Crystal Lake, is estimated at $8,000 by Chief Owen Sifritt. Practically the entire contents of the building are charred but the walls remain standing. The family was absent from home when the blaze was discovered by John Price, a neighbor about 11:30 o'clock last night. Firemen from the Mark street station responded to the alarm, battling the blaze for one and one-half hours. Origin of the fire was not determined the chief stated.

Fire started by a blow torch which Donald McKinley of 362 Quarry street was using to thaw out frozen water pipes resulted in $25 damage to a chair and some curtains. Mark street station firemen answered the call at 8:17 last night.

Three Firemen Injured Near Ashley

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, Feb. 3 — Fire Chief O. L. Johnson and two firemen were injured Monday afternoon while fighting a stubborn fire that partly destroyed the Hartmann-Miller farm home on the Westfield pike four miles northwest of Ashley.

Firemen fought for two-and a half hours to save the brick farmhouse. Defective wiring was thought to have caused the blaze.

ABRAM RUVINSKY IS STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Former Marion Orchestra Director Dies in Columbus.

Abram Ruvinsky, 57, for almost 15 years musical director of Radio Station WHKC, Columbus, and well known in Marion, died unexpectedly last night while riding in a trolley coach enroute to the Hartman theater in that city.

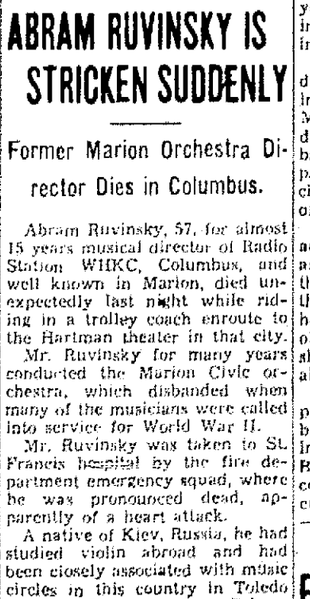

Mr. Ruvinsky for many years conducted the Marion Civic orchestra, which disbanded when many of the musicians were called into service for World War II.

Mr. Ruvinsky was taken to St. Francis hospital by the fire department emergency squad, where he was pronounced dead, apparently of a heart attack.

A native of Kiev, Russia, he had studied violin abroad and had been closely associated with music circles in this country in Toledo and New York as well as Columbus. He was a member of the pit orchestra at the Hartman theater 14 years and formerly played with similar units at Loew's Ohio and RIL Palace theaters. He also played in the salon ensemble of the Seneca Hotel for a number of years.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Diechler, whose stage name is Paula Ruvinska, New York, who has appeared with the local orchestra on several occasions.

T. W. LAMONT, BANKER, DIES

Famed Board Chairman of J. P. Morgan and Co. Was 77.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Thomas W. Lamont, 77, a country clergyman's son who became head of Wall Street's famed "House of Morgan," died last night at his winter home in Boca Grande, Fla.

Death of the board chairman of J. P. Morgan and Co., was announced in New York early today by R. G. Wasson, a vice president of the banking firm.

"His heart finally gave out," Wasson said. The financier and philanthropist had been in poor health for more than a year. He had been in Florida since early January.

Wasson said the slight, genial banker died peacefully in his sleep. At his bedside were his wife and two of their four children, Corliss Lamont and Mrs. C. C. Cunningham.

Lamont's almost legendary role in the financial world began in 1903. Then 33 years old, he became secretary and treasurer of the newly - organized Bankers Trust Co. His reputation as a shrewd organizer and astute financier spread rapidly and eight years later, J. Pierpont Morgan invited him to become a partner in J. P. Morgan and Co.

For two decades before the death of the younger J. P. Morgan in 1943, he was second only to Morgan himself in guiding the destinies of the international banking house. With Morgan's passing, Lamont succeeded him as chairman of the board and senior officer of the firm.

While a student at Harvard, he acted as correspondent for Boston and New York newspapers and the work fascinated him so much that after his graduation in 1892 he got a job as reporter on the old New York Tribune, where he showed considerable aptitude and ability.

But after two years in newspaper work he decided to enter business with the exporting and importing house of Cushman Brothers Co. in New York. The concern got into financial difficulties and young Lamont accept-

ERIE ORDERS 13 DIESEL ENGINES

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3—The Erie railroad has ordered 13 more diesel switch engines and four new diesel freight locomotives.

President Robert E. Woodruff, who announced the order last night, said the engines would cost $3,700,000 and be delivered early next year.

The order was divided among American Locomotive Co., General Motors Corporation's Electro-Motive division and Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The four freight engines will be used between Jersey City and Buffalo and between Hornell, N. Y., and Marion, O., Woodruff said. Eight switch engines are for the Croxton, N. J., yards; one for Weehawken, N. J., two for Jersey City and two for the Buffalo area.

CIVIL RIGHTS ISSUE STIRS PARTY TROUBLE

One Senator Proposes Calling Own Convention To Pick Southern Candidate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Southern Democrats talked bluntly today of calling a Dixie convention to split away from President Truman on the civil rights issue.

One deep south senator who asked not to be quoted by name told a reporter present plans are to ask the conference of southern governors to call an all-southern convention.

Such a political gathering could pick its own candidate for president. But the main objective would be to work out some way to withhold at least part of the south's electoral votes from Mr. Truman.

The governors will meet at Tallahassee, Fla., Friday. They are certain to take up Mr. Truman's message yesterday urging congress to act on a 10-point civil rights program.

The southerners are boiling mad over four of those points. They call for (1) a federal anti-lynching law, (2) a permanent fair employment practice commission, (3) an end to Jim Crow rules in transportation and (4) outlawing state poll taxes.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss) called these proposals "outrageous."

"The south will have to protect herself in the electoral college," he told a reporter.

At Jackson, Walter Sillers, speaker of the Mississippi house of representatives, flatly urged a convention call to name a southern presidential candidate.

Sillers said he favors this course "even if it means throwing the election of president into the house of representatives."

Another Proposal

Still another course being discussed by some southerners here is to have the state legislatures in Dixie appoint presidential electors who would be instructed not to vote for Mr. Truman.

Those back of this plan think that if they can get 60 electoral votes switched, they might throw a close presidential race into the house. There they would propose a southern Democrat as a compromise between Mr. Truman and his Republican opponent.

The constitution provides that presidential electors, rather than the voters themselves, shall elect the president and vice president.

Customarily, the people vote for those electors. But the Constitution says each state may appoint its electors "in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct."

After the presidential election in November, the electors meet in their own states, cast their votes for president and vice president and send their ballots to Washington.

The ballots then are counted at a joint meeting of the senate and house. If neither candidate has a majority of the 531 electoral votes, then the house of representatives meets by itself to do the electing among the three highest candidates.

Besides his four proposals that made the southerners hit the ceiling, Mr. Truman called upon congress to do these things "to see that constitutional guarantees of individual liberties and of equal protection under the laws are not denied or abridged anywhere in our union."

Other Proposals

Set up a permanent commission to study civil rights issues, also a joint congressional committee to do likewise and a special civil rights division in the justice department.

Strengthen present civil rights laws.

Provide home rule and the right to vote in presidential elections for residents of the District of Columbia. The district now is governed by congress and a commission appointed by the President. People here have no vote.

Grant statehood to Hawaii and Alaska "and a greater measure of self government for our island possessions."

Remove racial or national barriers which prevent some United States residents from becoming citizens.

Set up machinery to pay the damage claims of more than 100,000 Japanese-Americans who were moved inland from Pacific coast states during the war.

Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, described Mr. Truman's proposals as "courageous" steps toward

RATE INCREASE ASKED BY BELL

Boost of Approximately Ten Per Cent Sought by Company.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3—State utilities commission engineers and accountants today studied the application of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. for authority to boost phone rates approximately 10 per cent.

Following filing of yesterday's petition, company spokesmen said no request for an emergency order authorizing immediate increases was contemplated.

Considerable time probably will elapse before the commission passes on the application. The engineers and accountants are expected to require several months for the study of company exhibits and subsequent reports to Commission Secretary Thomas W. Maxson.

The case won't come before the commission for consideration until Maxson submits a report of his own, based on the engineers' and accountants' findings. Public hearings on any protests also may delay a final decision indefinitely.

Ohio Bell said the requested rates would increase total revenue about $8,500,000 annually, or nine per cent. Rate adjustments also would affect most of the services offered in varying amounts.

Operates 170 Exchanges

The company operates 1,432,560 telephones at 170 exchanges, serving all Ohio metropolitan centers except Cincinnati.

The application proposed increases in person-to-person long distance rates for certain distances, and a reduction in night and Sunday discounts on long distance calls. It sought no

3 MILLION GERMANS ON HUNGER STRIKE

By The Associated Press

HAMBURG, Germany, Feb. 3—Nearly 3,000,000 German workers went on a 24-hour hunger strike today. The walkout is expected to stall industry in the entire British zone and the state of Wurtemberg-Baden in the American sector.

Three simultaneous strikes began at midnight over an area reaching from Hamburg to Stuttgart. It is the greatest mass demonstration of this tpye yet held in Germany.

Streetcars and trains stopped running at the appointed hour in Stuttgart, Heidelberg, Mannheim and other major cities of Wurtemberg-Baden. In factories night shift workers left their machines. Only vital utilities continued to operate.

About 1,000,000 workers are involved in the Wurttemberg-Baden area. The strikers have adopted as slogan the "Unequally Laden Table."

In both zones the walkouts appear to be aimed against German food officials rather than the occupying powers.

Both the British and American military governments have declared a policy of non-intervention.

380 Hear Opening Lecture In Retail Training Series

"Interest follows knowledge," said Miss Marguerite Loos of Columbus, state supervisor of distributive education, to an audience of 380 Marion merchandisers assembled for her lecture "Modern Methods to Increase Sales Ability" at the first session of the Institute of Retail Training, held in Central Junior High school auditorium last night.

Enlarging upon her theme that "interest follows knowledge," Miss Loos drew a detailed word portrait of what a good salesman should know.

A salesman, she said, should be trained by his manager to know the merchandise he is to handle, and he should know what his employer expects of him. She emphasized that the salesman expects to receive this training and that his manager and employer should see that this expectation is fulfilled. As "interest follows knowledge," the more training the salesmen and saleswomen receive from their managers and employers, the greater will be their interest in the jobs.

The employer and supervisor should know their salesman and make sure the salesman knows them. Through this relationship the manager may instill in the salesman the knowledge of what to do on his job; how to do it, when to do it, and why such doing is necessary to the job.

Best Sales Viewpoint

Miss Loos then explained that a good salesman sells from the customers' point of view. The salesman is not selling just an item of merchandise to the purchaser but to satisfy the patron he should sell with the merchandise both the service and the good will of the firm he represents. At the same time, she stressed, the salesman must be able to define the value of the item for sale to the prospective customer. She stated that the same item of merchandise will have more value in the eyes of one customer than another. The seller should enhance the value of the merchandise by the way in which he or she handles it.

The sales employe should apply himself and utilize all training his supervisors can give him. Miss Loos continued. When he has mastered the technique of salesmanship and knows his merchandise and his job, then the salesman has something to offer his employer and the public he hopes to sell. Once these skills have been acquired, then the salesman must be a leader. He must put his knowledge of his job, his merchandise, and of salesmanship to work.

Should Know Advertised Goods

When the salesman is prepared to do his job, the responsibility of his supervisor and employer is to make sure at all times that the sales person knows of all merchandise being featured in advertising. In this way advertising may be utilized to the greatest extent to produce the greatest number of sales for the salesman and for the store, Miss Loos said.

In conclusion she stressed the slogan "Smile for Health."

"Smiles, like courtesy are infectious and a smiling salesman makes more sales," said Miss Loos.

The first session of the Retail Training Institute was opened by Miss Murl E. Frye, director of the Institute and coordinator of distributive education at Harding High. She explained the purpose of the training course. The course has as its slogan an increase in the efficency of the worker, to give more economical service, and to give greater customer satisfaction.

Introductory Talks

The merchandisers were introduced by Lester L. Dickey, Marion's new superintendent of schools, in his first public appearance here. C. E. Jennings welcomed the merchandisers on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce Retail Board of Managers, sponsors of the institute.

In addition to the professional merchandisers in attendance from local business establishments the enrollment included 24 students from the distributive education classes of Harding High school.

Preceding Miss Loos' address the Marshall Field film, "By Jupiter" was shown. The subject of the film was the effect of courtesy in making the business day a happy and profitable experience.

At the close of the meeting Frank Hall, a Harding High student and chairman of the Future Retailers Organization of the distributive education classes at the school, outlined the clean-up project which the Future Retailers are sponsoring for a cleaner downtown district.

The next meeting of the institute, on Monday Feb. 9, will feature Miss Amanda Thomas of Columbus, who will speak on "The Customer Speaks Her Mind." Miss Thomas is research secretary of the Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants. A motion picture "Along Main Street," presented by the Coca Cola company, will augment the speakers program.

Meat Rationing Plan Hit by Senate Group

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—A senate banking subcommittee today voted against authorizing the government to get ready for meat rationing.

Chairman Flanders (R-Vt) told reporters the vote was three to two against his bill to let the agriculture department set up rationing machinery.

The subcommittee's recommendation against the measure goes now to the full banking committee.

ROBERT T. MASON IN CONGRESS RACE

Seeks GOP Nomination; More County Candidates Entered.

With the deadline for filing declarations of candidacy at the May primary drawing near, another candidate has entered the race for member of congress from the Eighth Ohio district.

Robert T. Mason, president of the Marion Broadcasting Co., which operates station WMRN, will oppose Congressman Frederick C. Smith in the May primary for the Republican nomination for member of congress.

Mr. Mason filed his declaration of candidacy Monday afternoon with the Marion county board of elections.

Also filing were Ralph Carhart (R) for county prosecutor and Walter Bailey (R) for county commissioner. Mr. Bailey is the present county registrar of motor vehicles.

Deadline for filing of petitions for the Ohio primary May 4 is 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. As time runs out candidates on the Democratic ticket have yet to file for the following major county offices: prosecutor, treasurer, engineer, probate judge and clerk of courts. No candidates on either ticket have filed for coroner.

A statement accompanying announcement of Mr. Mason's candidacy for congress included the information that he has been active in Republican politics in Ohio for the past 25 years, principally in the Cleveland, Lakewood and Rocky River districts. He was a resident of Cleveland for 16 years before coming to Marion seven and a half years ago.

For the past year and a half he has served as radio consultant for the state Republican organization and is one of three representatives of the public to serve on the Ohio apprenticeship coun-

The Memoirs of Cordell Hull

Britain's Attitude On Arms Accord Brought Roosevelt Disapproval

By CORDELL HULL

(Copyright, 1948, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

INSTALLMENT VIII

IN THE FIRST years of the Roosevelt administration, when Germany was arming, Japan warring and Italy preparing for conflict, it was most unfortunate that many differences plagued relations among the major western democracies—the United States, Britain and France. Immediately upon entering the state department I saw that only a common attitude among these three powers, preferably joined by Russia, could recall the three jingoist countries to their senses. Actually we presented a miserable spectacle of disagreement and recrimination more often than of accord.

In our relations with Britain, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon proved a frequent source of annoyance. Beginning with the invasion of Manchuria, Simon seemed to me to lack a stable, basic course. I believed, from all the information available, that he showed too much consideration for the Japanese, and I still think so. He surprised us by conceding that Japan had some special rights in Manchuria. When the President decided immediately after his inauguration to rebuild our Navy up to treaty strength, Simon requested that we abandon the program lest it lead to a race in naval armaments, but he did not offer to abandon construction of British warships then under way. At the London economic conference Simon had been uncooperative. His personality was cold.

SIMON'S OBJECTION in March, 1935 to the principle of international inspection on the spot of armaments production sharply irritated the President. Mr. Roosevelt and I were in accord that we should agree to this principle. I had sent him a telegram of March 8 from Minister Hugh Wilson in Geneva, giving three reasons for Simon's opposition; inspection would reveal to Continental nations the precarious state of Britain's armaments; if they agreed to it they would be giving away their "trump card" with reference to the French, for whom there would then be no incentive to go further and make a general treaty limiting armaments; and detailed publicity on armaments orders would furnish a basis for unfair competition that would prejudice Britain's armaments trade.

In a note to me the following day, March 9, the President commented that that was "a very significant dispatch which I think you should lay aside for possible future need." He went on: "It shows two things: first, the unwillingness of the British, because of alleged armament weakness, to accept the principle of open international armament inspection—thus making it impossible to go along with what we have considered essential in its application to Germany; in other words, the only practical way of keeping German armaments down to an agreed-on level being to inspect German armament supplies. Britain dashes this hope by declining to be inspected herself. The last paragraph is a frank admission that the British decline to accept detailed publicity as to armaments orders on the ground that it would prejudice their armaments trade."

HE THEN CONCLUDED: "At some future time it may be advisable to pull this rabbit out of our hat as proof that the present British government is not sincere in seeking limitation or reduction of present world armaments or present world trade in warlike weapons.

"I am much discouraged."

In Washington, the British ambassador of this period, Sir Ronald Lindsay, was difficult to deal with. He confined his contacts with Americans to a restricted set of the highest society, most of whom opposed the Roosevelt administration. It was hard to make him see our point of view. I got along much better with his abler and more agreeable successors, Lord Lothian and Lord Halifax.

One of our prime difficulties in dealing with Britain and France was the inability of each to deal with the other.

Troubles between Britain and France had started at the Paris peace conference. France wanted to move her strategic frontier to the Rhine. She gave this up in exchange for Anglo-American pacts of guarantee which never materialized. From then on, France felt that Britain and the United States were relying on her to defend them against Germany and at the same time demanding that she whittle down the Army with which to make such defense. Britain wanted a stronger, prosperous Germany. France wanted Germany held below French strength.

Mindful of Germany's superior industrial strength and distrustful of any German government no matter what its composition, France could not agree to anything approaching equality of armaments between herself and Germany. Britain, on the other hand, disliked France's predominant position on the continent and would have liked more of a European balance of power in which her own strength would be the decisive factor. France, although stoutly opposing British ideas on the continent still sought unceasingly to swing Britain into a copper-riveted security pact against Germany.

ONE OF THE QUESTIONS people will never cease asking is: When Britain and France in this period were so superior in strength and Germany so inferior, how did they permit Germany to gain superiority and threaten their very existence? The truth was that neither Britain nor France wanted a preventative war. In Britain the isolationist sentiment was about as strong as it was in the United States. France had tried preventative measures when she invaded the Ruhr in 1923. The result was bitter opposition from Britain and the fall of the Poincare government. No French government thereafter was willing to embark on a preventative war.

SIR RONALD LINDSAY

Here we were face to face with a basic weakness of democracies or of governments in which the people have an important voice. With all their riches of God's blessings in so many ways, they most unfortunately have a record of moving slowly—too slowly—in the face of external dangers either imminent or seriously threatening. A pure democracy was the contribution of Athenians to civilization, and yet that little nation sought, in the face of certain danger from abroad, to conduct a popular vote on whether Athens should fight. This lack of leadership and of proper consideration for the leadership of the appropriate government officials played directly into the hands of the lawless aggressor whose purpose was the capture and enslavement of the Athenians. This weakness proved the undoing and ultimate death of the Athenian democracy.

WITH DUE RESPECT for the varying and conflicting opinions of individuals and groups here and in other peace-loving countries during the 1930's, I am sure that if the nations standing for peace had taken concerted action to arm adequately, they could have demanded a showdown with the bandit nations, Germany, Italy and Japan, and averted the recent World War.

Coincidental with our efforts to improve direct relations with Britain and France as a means of increasing the chances of peace in Europe was our constant attempt to strengthen the prestige of the League of Nations. The President and I, as fervent followers of Woodrow Wilson, had the League close at heart. Many times since 1920 we had both made strenuous but vain attempts to uphold the League in its full vigor by preachments and concrete acts.

On one occasion the President remarked to me that he was turning over in his mind the possibility of appointing an American ambassador to the League. But there were too many obstacles in the way. No other non-member nation had such a representative, the functions of representation were already being capably fulfilled by our minister to Switzerland, and the isolationists on this side would seize upon the appointment for a dead-center rush against the administration.

THE MOUNTING THREATS to peace in Europe and Asia had in America exactly the opposite effect they should have had. They ought to have made a large section of the American public more willing to unite with right-minded nations abroad in bringing pressure to bear on the nations obviously preparing for war. Instead they caused those Americans, most of whom were honest in their beliefs, to pull back in alarm and to vow they would have nothing to do with the rest of the world. They blindly failed to see that a major war anywhere could not but touch us in many vital points.

I, myself, along with numerous other officials cooperating with me, never ceased trying to point out to my own countrymen, and to foreign governments as well, that the danger to peace was great and becoming greater. A number of persons even to this day, with apparent surprise and astounding ignorance or forgetfulness, say loudly to those of us in immediate charge of our foreign relations in those days: "What were you doing during the years following 1933? Why did you not discern the foreign dangers steadily developing? Why did you not give the American public notice of such perils and the need for adequate preparations against them? If the isolationist viewpoint seriously interfered with the problem of discovering and making known to America these perils and threats, why did you not bring this tremendously important matter to the attention of the general public?"

THE ANSWER TO THESE apparently innocent questions and exclamations is fully set forth in the record. As the dangers of aggression increasingly revealed themselves, I made more than 20 addresses and statements in my first two years in office alone, containing as emphatic warnings of coming danger as the English language could convey.

I continued these warnings in the years to follow. I always paid great attention to the preparation of such public addresses I knew they would be widely quoted at home and also that foreign governments were likely to read them in full. They were to be an expression of the policies and views of the American government, not merely of myself.

Sometimes weeks were spent in the writing of one speech. I would call to my office a group of principal advisers. "I am scheduled to make a speech in such and such a city on such and such a day," I would say. "Here is what I have in mind." I then outlined to them the ideas I had been evolving. I might have some notes before me, sometimes written the night before at my apartment. Then I asked for their opinion and suggestions. Finally I picked one of my associates to draft these ideas into a text of the speech. The head of an important department required to make important statements of all kinds virtually from day to day has literally no time personally to prepare his own texts.

WHEN THE FIRST DRAFT of a speech came to me, I revised and rewrote. I then circulated this text to my advisers, with the request that they write in their suggestions or additions.

Fifteen drafts of one important address were written before I gave my final OK.

Before delivering a major speech committing the administration to a certain policy, I made it a point to submit the text to the President in advance of delivery. I usually took it to him myself because I did not want it to get into other hands before he had read it, and because I wanted to be present when he went over it in order to have a chance to explain anything to him that might arise and also to observe personally his reaction. The President silently read my speech but always commented from time to time as he found something that excited unusual interest. Only in rare instances, however, did he offer suggestions or criticism, and they were not of a fundamental nature.

In addition to these addresses I continued to speak privately in the same tone to the ambassadors of the major nations.

I was listened to but not heeded. My congressional experience as a Cassandra in the Twenties was being transplanted to the foreign field in the Thirties.

In Plain Words By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — PRESIDENT TRUMAN has asked action from congress to see that all people get equal rights in this country.

He made this in a message to congress yesterday. He asked action on a number of points. Briefly, he asked for laws prominent citizens—reported out:

a great deal of discrimination against Jews seeking jobs. But there's discrimination against Indians and Mexican-Americans also in looking for work.

In New Mexica and Arizona Indians can't vote. But in Washington, D. C., the nation's capital, where there are 900,000 people, no one can vote.

Mr. Truman asked congress to pass a law so Washingtonians can vote. And he wants Alaska and Hawaii made states so the people there can vote.

Will congress do what the President asked? Probably not much of it, if any at all. It may let the people here in Washington vote.

And it may let Hawaii and Alaska become states. Don't bet on it.

SUPPOSE THE REPUBLICAN-controlled congress tries to put through an anti-lynching law.

Members of Mr. Truman's own party, southern Democrats, are sure to try to block it by a filibuster. The same with an anti-polltax law. The same with any law to see a man isn't barred from a job because of color.

The southerners argue that all these things should be left to the states themselves to handle.

Yet, this is a big political year, a presidential election year. Some congressmen, right after Mr. Truman's message reached them yesterday, accused him of playing politics for votes by issuing the message.

TO WIN THIS YEAR, the Democrats need the vote of the white Democrats in the south, where only a handful of Negroes vote.

And they'll hope for the vote of northern Negroes who can vote but want to see southern Negroes voting and treated equally with whites.

To please the white southern Democrats and the northern Negroes will be quite a task for Mr. Truman's Democratic party.

But the Republicans want the Negroes' vote, too. How can they attract the northern Negroes if they fail to put through the laws suggested by Mr. Truman to help Negroes generally, but particularly southern Negroes?

The Republicans probably can say the southern Democratic congressmen would have blocked anything they tried to do.

SO BOTH PARTIES will meet in convention in Philadelphia this June and draw up platforms. Those platforms are promises of what they'll try to do if they win.

And in those platforms both parties probably will promise, if elected, to try to do in the next four years the things Mr. Truman suggested yesterday that congress do this year.

What Mr. Truman did yesterday—the points he suggested—is not a brand new story.

In 1944 the Republicans and Democrats met in Chicago and drew up platforms. In one way or another they talked of doing, between 1944 and 1948, the things Mr. Truman talked on yesterday.

For example, the Republican platform of 1944 set up these goals:

An anti-lynching law; an anti-polltax law; a law to see that people were not barred from jobs because of race, color or religion.

And the Republican platform, somewhat vaguely, talked of statehood for Hawaii and Alaska although it didn't say when.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM of 1944, among other things, set up these goals:

Statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, sometime — the language was vague — and a vote for the people of Washington, D. C.

That Democratic platform of 1944 didn't say anything, by name, about anti-lynching, anti-poll tax or equality in job-seeking.

It wrapped up the whole problem of racial-religious-color-discrimination in this one paragraph:

"We believe that racial and religious minorities have the right to live, develop and vote equally with all citizens and share the rights that are guaranteed by the Constitution. Congress should exert its full constitutional powers to protect those rights."

Both Democrats and Republicans have had since 1944 to do what they talked of doing on these points if they won. But neither has.

The Democrats controlled congress the first two years since 1944. The Republicans have controlled it since 1946.

Incubator Co. To Leave Bucyrus Next Fall

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Ground was broken in Cleveland this week for the new plant to be built and occupied by the Smith Incubator Co., which announced its plans to leave Bucyrus early this fall. Announcement was made by S.Harold Smith, president of the company. While construction is underway the company will continue to operate its offices in Bucyrus. A number of employes will be transferred to Cleveland.

The local plant was vacated before Jan. 1 when the building was taken over by the Timken Roller Bearing Co. of Canton, which will start operations of a bearing plant within a short time, according to the company's announcement.

The Smith home and farm on the Marion road has been sold to Dr. D. G. Arnold of Bucyrus who will occupy the home after the middle of June.

NAMED NEW MANAGER

BUCYRUS — The appointment of Edwin Sells, formerly of Cleveland, as the new manager of the Bucyrus F. W. Woolworth Co. store was announced today. Sells comes to Bucyrus from Mansfield where he was assistant manager of the store there. He succeeds John Eisweirth, manager here for two years, who has been transferred to the Xenia store as manager.

WESTMINSTER GUILD MEETS

Marion Shrine Club Committees Named

A meeting of the Marion Shrine club was held Saturday night at the Masonic Temple with Earl Andrews, vice president, presiding in the absence of the president, Paul Bachman, who is in Florida. Committees for the new year were named, and Ernest Shinner and Foster Miller were appointed chairmen in charge of the Shrine baseball committee for the year. Following the meeting, a social hour was held at Turoff's Restaurant.

GIVE TO MARCH OF DIMES

At a meeting of the Senior class of Trinity rural Lutheran church Friday night, a contribution was made to the March of Dimes infantile paralysis fund. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Seiter entertained the class in their home. Scripture was presented by Rev. Wilbur R. Budke, pastor. Named on a flower committee were Mrs. Fred Leffler, and Mrs. Bernaldo Williams, and Mrs. Donald Heiby was appointed reporter. Mrs. Robert Seiter was enrolled as a new member. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Seiter. A social hour included games. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Seiter.

Radioactive Iodine Holds Key To New Treatment for Cancer

By PAULL F. ELLIS
United Press Science Writer
Copyright, 1948, By United Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—A key to the cancer problem has been found. It is not a pass key that will unlock all the doors, but may lead into an area where keys to other doors may be found.

This first key is radioactive iodine. The door it unlocks is the thyroid gland.

So important is the significance of radioactive iodine in thyroid cancer that one of the world's top cancer hospitals has set up a special project to take full advantage of it. This cancer center is New York's Memorial hospital for cancer and allied diseases.

The scientists assigned to this project are members of the "thyroid team." It is a joint project with the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, recognized as one of the world's most famous centers for the treatment of thyroid disease.

Such joint cooperation between two hospitals is one of the encouraging signs on the horizon of cancer research. They seem sure to accomplish more working together than separately.

Results Are Good

Results so far show that some patients, dying when they were admitted for treatment, have left the hospital under their own power, ... due to apparently under control.

The scientists of this thyroid team do not say that these patients have been cured. They are not thinking entirely of controlling thyroid cancer. They know that if radioactive substances are produced in the atomic oven, can bring results in certain types of thyroid cancer, then there may be radioactive substances other than iodine that will penetrate other types of cancer.

This first key—radioactive iodine—actually was found before the atomic bomb was developed. But in those early days, back in the 1930's, the making of radioactive iodine was expensive. It was created on the cyclotron at ... making more ne... Today it is made in the atomic laboratories at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Radioactive iodine is the same as to taste and its chemical properties as the product that a person buys in a drug store, except that it throws off radiation, and is used in extremely small amounts.

Affinity for Iodine

It collects iodine from the blood stream and uses it to make a hormone known as thyroxin. The normal thyroid picks up iodine whether it is radioactive or not.

The radio-active substance carries with it two forms of radiation or sparks. One type of radiation is the beta ray. The invisible beta rays travel about .07874 of an inch. The other type of radiation is the gamma ray. Gamma rays are so penetrating they will go through several inches of lead.

Thyroid cancer itself is a rare form. Of all thyroid cancer cases only about 15 per cent are initially suitable for treatment with radioactive iodine. This is because some thyroid tissue, once it becomes cancerous, loses most of its desire to collect iodine. In the case of the 25 per cent of thyroid cancers that do pick up the iodine, it has been found that such cancers more closely resemble the structure of the original normal gland.

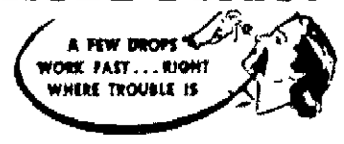

So the Memorial thyroid team is concentrating its efforts on the type of cancer thyroid that picks up radioactive iodine. Surgery still is the best weapon for thyroid cancer that has not spread from the original location in the neck.

It is for the more serious type that breaks away from the original gland and burns up in other parts of the body, that radioactive iodine treatment is recommended. When a cancer spreads it is called metastases. In about 15 per cent of thyroid cancer cases radioactive iodine can be used effectively.

DOG RESCUED. Raymond Clark, a city employe, emerges from a crevice in a bluff high above the Mississippi river at Dubuque, Ia., with a spotted terrier, which had been trapped in the hole for a week after he had apparently entered the hole in pursuit of an animal, and was imprisoned by a rock slide. His rescuers worked for an hour with an air hammer to free the hungry, but otherwise unharmed canine.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

FROM sheer force of habit, due to my familiarity with the Underwood home, I started for the library when my father asked me to get the packet for him which I had fastened so firmly inside my gown that I had to remove the dress to get at it. But my father stopped me with a quick gesture and a word of explanation.

"Not the library," he said. "Lillian is in there with—a guest—whom I do not wish to bring in here just yet. If you'll step into the dining room instead."

"Of course," I said thankful that I had made the involuntary movement. It would prove to my father, if he needed such proof, that Harry Underwood had given us no word of warning about the "Exhibit A" which Lillian was guarding and, which he had said, would give us 'a bit of a shock.' But I was glad to get out of the room, for I feared my "tell tale face" might raise a disquieting question in my parent's mind.

But my thoughts were caroming around my mind as, safely in the shelter of the dining room, I undid my gown, took it partly off, and unfastened the package which Olga had prepared for my father. Harry Underwood had spoken of "Exhibit A" as "it," and I had assumed that Lillian was guarding some inanimate object that Dicky and I had seen at some time.

But my father had said that Lillian had a "guest" in the library. That must mean a person, whether man or woman, he had not specified. What person, out of our past lives, would give Dicky and me a shock, if suddenly materialized before our eyes?

"Wait a second!" I told myself imperatively, as I arranged my dress again, and made ready to go back into the library. Harry had not said that we were going to meet someone we had known, and surely he would have specified that.

He is not like my father, wary of giving out any morsel of information. Harry can be tongue-tied if it is necessary, but naturally he is voluble, especially with his oldest and closest friends, as we are.

But there was no use speculating upon what was hidden behind the closed library doors. I would know soon, for I knew that my father was anxious to have me commence my journey to the Sag Harbor farm house sanctuary with the royal playboy, fugitive King Georges of Trees, as soon as it could be managed. So I put down my doubts and tremors with an iron hand as I went back into the library with Olga's packet in my hands.

My father was on his feet at my entrance, as quickly as the two younger men, and he put me back into my chair himself, waving Dicky and Harry back imperiously. Then he gestured to the packet I was holding.

"This is what Olga sent to me?" he queried.

I held it out to him. "Yes," I answered. "She said she had sent everything for which you had asked."

He took the packet and went back to his own seat, with an impatient gesture to Harry and Dicky which made them get into their own chairs quickly. Then he spoke to all of us with his usual formal, meticulous courtesy.

"You will pardon me while I open this," he said and all three of us nodded a silent assent. We know he did not want words.

There was a small end table near his chair, and he drew it in front of him before he opened the package Olga had prepared for him with such care. Then he undid it, and spread out on the table the sheets of paper bearing samples of her signature and other handwriting. He glanced at the little pile of her notepaper and envelopes bearing the royal crest, then laid it to one side while he carefully studied the samples of her chirography which she had prepared for him.

We watched him silently, and the conviction came to me, as I knew it had come to Dicky and Harry, that there was something tremendously important to my father in those sheets of paper. Was it connected with Lillian's "guest" in the library?

I was sure, of course, that it had something to do with Georges, and not for the first time since my coming into the Underwood living room, I wondered where Georges was keeping himself, or was being kept. And then my father put my thought into words.

"I suppose you are all wondering where George is," he said. "He will be along after a bit. I don't want him present at the explanation of this"—he gestured to the papers before him—"which I am going to give you."

NUSSBAUM HEADS GALION ROTARY

Special to The Star

GALION, Feb 3—Howard Nussbaum was elected president of the Galion Rotary club at the regular dinner-meeting, Monday night, at Hotel Talbott. Other officers named from the roster recommended by the nominating committee are, vice president, W. Y. McCulloch, secretary-treasurer, M. R. McCammon; assistant secretary-treasurer, Dr. B. P. Mansfield; directors, Rev. W. R. Ellis and Ford Mellott.

During the business session which was presided over by Nussbaum in the abence of the president, Walter Goshorn, the club made plans to hold its annual Valentine party for the ladies Monday at the Greenlawn Inn, northwest of Galion.

Roger Godfrey and Nussbaum were speakers for the meeting. Godfrey told of Regional and National Organization of the Boy Scouts of America. He said that Galion district is in the Johnny Appleseed area, a part of Region No. 4 of the United States. This region covers all of Ohio, all of West Virginia, with the exception of eight counties, all of Kentucky, and six counties of Tennessee. He explained in detail the national and regional organization.

"Rotary clubs are sponsoring 1,900 Boy Scout troops out of a total of 66,000 in the United States," Godfrey concluded.

Nussbaum, speaking further on the subject, gave a list of the following Rotarians who are actively engaged in Boy Scout work: Harold Marshall McCulloch, S. D. VanMeter, Marion E. Shank, M. D. Bonsteel, Dr. B., P. Mansfield, Clarence Myers, Roger Godfrey and Nussbaum. Godfrey is a member of the national council.

The club welcomed Gerald Bosler and Eugene Thayer as guests, and John Shook of the Mansfield Rotary club a visitor.

CUB SCOUT LEADERS OF DISTRICT MEET

Marion, Mt. Gilead, Prospect Represented.

Herman Powelson was acting leader at a meeting Thursday night of Cub Scout leaders round table held at the scout office. The meeting opened with Howard Ziegler giving the pledge to the flag and the Cub promise.

The Cub theme discussed ... "How to get new Cubs," David Roberts; "Den Mother's part," Mrs. Florence Daugherty; "Cub master's duties," Mr. Powelson; "How to conduct new Cubs first den meeting," Mrs. Gladys Pollock; "What this does for the pack," Elson Jones; "Proper pack meeting," Edward Haenten, and "Advancement," by Owen Meddles. The closing ceremony was given by Fred Southock.

Represented at the meeting were Packs 2, 3, 4, 23, 39 and 46, all of Marion; Pack 23 of Prospect; Pack 27 and five Den mothers from Mt. Gilead. Plans were discussed to organize a new pack at the Main Street church with Ray Raleigh as cub master.

Scout officials present for the round table included W. L. Arnold, scout commissioner and Jane Bull, chairman of cub commissioners at Trinity Baptist church, sponsors of Pack 4.

Plans were made for window displays during Cub week in February. A display of Pack 23 is in the window of the scout office on East Church street.

Anchorage, Alaska, grew from 3,500 people in 1939 to 10,000 people during World War II.

Famed Dancer and Harmonica Team Next Concert Number

Paul Draper and Larry Adler, the team that has danced and played its way into the top flight of their particular field of entertainment will be presented as the second number of the Marion Community Concert association's series of entertainment, Wednesday night at the Palace theater

Draper a native of Florence Italy is the son of a well known singer of his day and his mother was a lecturer and writer. Forsaking scholastic studies he ran away from home and after shipping to England on his own, landed a job of comedy dancing went on to Paris and later returned home to take up classic ballet. After combining comedy and classic dancing he established a style of his own found himself the idol of London's Mayfair and in 1940 teamed up with Larry Adler at Chicago. Draper co-starred with James Cagney in "The Time of Your Life" and has appeared as soloist with the Boston Symphony orchestra

The musical part of the team Larry Adler, is a native of Baltimore, Md, where he studied piano lessons in his youth and became discouraged when his teacher said he would never amount to much musically. He won first prize in a harmonica contest instituted by a Baltimore newspaper and following this he went to New York where he appeared in vaudeville. His specialties are programs of classical and popular music and he has appeared on radio programs as well as making solo appearances with name orchestras. His motion picture work includes "The Big Broadcast," "Music for Millions" and "The Birds and the Bees"

Little Folks at the Doctor's

Examining a small child can be as much of an ordeal for the doctor as it is for the youngster. Few children—or adults either, for that matter—like the "poking and prying" which must of necessity be included in a thorough physical examination, but, with the right approach they will, as a rule, submit to it cheerfully; that is, they will submit when the doctor is tactful and patient, and the children not frightened in advance of their visit to the doctor's office by things their parents have said or done. Where they have been frightened the first move of the doctor brings on a howl of rage or a whimper of fear, if not complete rebellion

This is unfortunate on all sides. Such nervous excitement is bad even for a well child, it may well aggravate the illness of a sick one and at the same time, make it difficult, if not impossible, for the doctor to find out what the trouble really is

Parents often frighten their children by saying that they "will send for the doctor" if they do not behave. This only has the effect of making the child fear the doctor all the more and when sickness does occur everybody's troubles—child's, mother's, physician's—are thereby redoubled

The doctor himself may do many things which will tend to quiet the child and make it possible for him to proceed with his examination. Often a doctor gives a child something to play with while the youngster is waiting to be examined but he keeps knives, needles, and other such equipment out of the child's sight

Frequently when a child is to be given an injection the mother becomes panicky. This of course, only tends to increase the youngster's alarm. As a rule, the child should be told in a quiet way that an injection will hurt a little like a mosquito bite. When this is done, he usually makes no resistance

It is often helpful, when it is necessary for a child to be examined or treated by a physician, to reward the youngster for good behavior by giving him a lollypop or a simple toy

In caring for the sick child, it sometimes is a problem to get him to take the medicines the doctor has prescribed. Of course, the physician does his best to make the medicine palatable. However, little children cannot, as a rule, swallow pills or capsules, so they must be given liquid preparations. If a pill is prescribed it may be put into a little jelly, the child will then have no difficulty swallowing it. Lozenges which can be chewed up, are also useful in the administration of some preparations

Parents should bear in mind the need for making the child think of the physician as a friend and should do everything possible to avoid building up fears of the doctor in the youngster's mind. Then, if sickness occurs, the care of the child will be a much simpler task.

First of the Vote-Wheedlers

THE house has passed the Knutson tax-cutting bill by a vote of 297 to 120. This measure is the first of the vote-wheedlers that will be passed in the final session of the 80th congress, with an eye to next November's election.

The tax-burdened population is supposed to feel grateful for relief. Its gratitude is subject to reservation.

First, the bill itself is a phoney. It will be revised in the senate, which has a stronger sense of responsibility for national welfare than the house.

Second, the bill has not been preceded and isn't likely to be followed by proposals for corresponding decreases in the rate of government spending. Congressmen will continue to dish out federal gravy while collecting less money.

Third, the bill has been whooped through the house in the face of other proposals that would increase government costs. Not only would it be a miracle if congress decreased President Truman's inflated budget but a miracle if it didn't add a net increase. The cost of national defense is rising. The obligations of the government abroad are rising. There will be no lack of excuses for spending more money, not less.

Tax-cutting at this time is politics, not prudence. The millions who are supposed to feel grateful should ask themselves why. Is it because they think tax-cutting is sound public policy, or because they don't give a hoot about national welfare as long as politicians are tickling their pocketbook nerves?

Wallace Underestimates It

HENRY WALLACE, opening his Communist-backed demonstration in the 1948 election, predicts people will be amazed at the outcome.

They will be shocked by proof that Wallace and his backers can line up substantial numbers of voters on command; that they can manipulate foreign-language groups in large cities; that they can exploit racial and religious prejudice; that they can capture a large section of the lunatic fringe; that a tiny minority can start from scratch and build itself up to major nuisance value on a program of opposition to accepted American beliefs.

Henry Wallace can't be blamed for what he is about to do and have done in his name. If he didn't do it, someone else would. The time apparently has come for Americans to witness a demonstration of dissent to what they fondly cherish as the American way of life.

When the demonstration has been witnessed the country will be sadder and wiser. It also will be lucky if what it has seen doesn't make it itch to rush into the frightened, angry action the Communists are praying for—which is the apparent reason why they're backing Wallace for all they're worth.

Positions Open, Executive

THE President has been unable to fill the civil aeronautics board chairmanship and two other vacancies on the five-man board. The most recent to turn down the chairmanship was George P. Baker, air transportation professor at Harvard who had tentatively agreed to accept if he could retain his teaching post.

Government supervision of civil aviation is in a bad way, for Theodore P. Wright, head of the affiliated civilian aeronautics administration, also has submitted his resignation. Qualified men can earn substantially higher salaries working for airlines, even pilots are drawing higher pay than the $10,000 offered on the supervisory agencies.

The fact that the President must plead for qualified replacements detracts from the bureau's prestige. Congress should rectify this situation by following the air policy commission recommendation that air commission salaries be fixed at $15,000.

Coincidence

DEBATE on the St. Lawrence seaway has been progressing for several days in the senate, with a vast amount of argument and data being read into the record.

All the senators participating in the debate maintain that they take their stands only in the national interest. They are indignant when there is any implication of sectionalism, although Senator Tydings was frank enough to admit he was ever mindful that he represented Maryland and the seaport of Baltimore.

It's coincidental, then, that opposition to the seaway comes from east coast, gulf states and Mississippi Valley senators, while its proponents come from the great lakes states. Or, as Lord Byron said, "A strange coincidence, to use a phrase by which such things are settled nowadays."

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

U. S. Delegates Tariff Rights To 17 Nations.

SINCE the days of Alexander Hamilton, the tariff has been a sovereign activity of the United States, the congress determining what it should be and in what manner it is to be collected. This phase of American sovereignty has now been delegated to 17 nations, including debtors to the United States. Apart from the United States, these countries are Great Britain, Canada, India, Australia, Union of South Africa, New Zealand, Belgium - Luxemburg - Netherlands (known as Benelux), Brazil, Chile, China, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, France, Norway, Lebanon. Soviet Russia declined to join.

SOKOLSKY

The 17 nations have held a number of meetings, the principal ones being at Geneva and Havana. At Geneva, they drew up a document which they call a charter, the effect of which transfers tariff-making from the congress of the United States to this body of debtor nations. Of course, that would be stupid control, so the device used is the trade agreement act of 1934, since extended up to June 12, 1949, conferring upon the President the right to reduce the tariff under certain specific conditions.

The President can proclaim certain tariff changes as though they originated with him. Actually they are a result of the conferences among these 17 nations and are part of a general agreement reached by the international trade organization (ITO) of the United Nations. The decisions of ITO thus become the law of the land. Congress has thus abrogated an important part of American sovereignty.

3,600 Rates Affected

The Geneva agreement affects about 3,600 tariff rates. A partial list shows that the following American communities will be affected.

Stones, glass, pottery, printing, engraving, electrotyping and stereotyping, woodworking, chair making, hats, painting, decorating and paper hanging, carpenters and joiners, breweries, meat cutters and butcher, garment industry, brick and clay, bricklaying, masonry and plastering, marble, slate and stone, wood carving, coopers, paper making, pulp, composite and paper boxes, metals, polishers, buffers, platers, stereotypers, leather, wallpaper, wire weaving, aluminum, cement, lace, rubber products, watches, agricultural products generally, coal mining, chemicals, pigments and dry colors, salt, glassware, tile, enamelware, optical instruments, dental and surgical instruments, cutlery, scissors and shears, hardware, tools, saws, etc., electrical appliances, agricultural implements, metal abrasives, cast iron pipe, firearms and ammunition, wire cloth, textile, shoe, etc. Machinery, zinc, lead, copper and brass, nuts, figs, dates and other specialty crops, textiles cotton, woolens and worsteds, paper makers felt, laces, and embroideries, threads, twines and cordage, rayons, velvets and velveteens, elastic fabrics, wool felt hat bodies, linoleum and felt-base floor coverings, carpets and rugs, leather goods, pencils and pens, toys, bicycles.

Gist of Matter

The gist of the matter is that a tariff policy is being fixed for the United States by its debtors at a time when no one can correctly determine what the economic situation of the world will be a month hence. We have just witnessed France's revolution of her currency by unilateral action. It so happens that what France did suits the United States, but it upsets Great Britain's economy. If anybody still remembers. Who can say what Great Britain will be forced to do? In a word, we fix our tariff at a moment of universal flux.

Clair Wilcox, director of the office of international trade policy of the state department, makes this point in a defense of ITO:

"... Political cooperation among nations remains in jeopardy as long as individual nations feel free to wage economic warfare with weapons of their own choosing and rules of their own making."

But that does not explain why the creditor country should be so completely at the mercy of its debtors. It is particularly difficult to understand why the United States should have to make all the sacrifice the other countries made it clear they could not go along with the ITO program unless we cut our tariff—so we cut our tariff.

Unquestionably the state department by-passed congress. The entire subject requires detailed investigation by congress. Certainly the trade agreement law, which expires on June 12, 1948, ought not and probably will not be renewed. Meanwhile, business and labor, which face wild competition from socialized and low-wage countries, ought to consider their interests.

Four Per Cent Milk From 3.2 Beer?

A British cow which has just set a new milk production record drinks half a gallon of beer a day.

You mean the average cow had rather be in the hops than in the clover?

It may be only a question of time until progressive dairies are advertising "milk from intoxicated cows."

And a pretty scene it'll be, too, the milkmaid going forth to feed the cows in the early morn, a pail of oats in one hand, a bucket of suds in the other.

Of course, this is sure to bring a protest from the SPCA, to say nothing of the WCTU.

In fact, in time we may have to have an entirely new organization . . . . Holsteins Anonymous.

Great Drama in Gandhi's Life

By Walter Lippmann

IN THE life and death of Mahatma Gandhi we have seen re-enacted in our time the supreme drama of humanity. Gandhi was a political leader and he was a seer, and perhaps never before on so grand a scale has anyone sought to shape the course of events in the world as it is by the example of a spirit which was not of the world as it is.

Gandhi was, as St. Paul said, transformed in the renewing of his mind, he was not "conformed to this world." Yet, he sought to govern turbulent masses of men who were still very much conformed to this world, and have not been transformed. He died by violence as he was staking his life in order to set the example of nonviolence.

LIPPMANN

Thus he posed again the perennial question of how the insight of the seers and saints is related to the work of legislators, rulers, and statesmen. That they are in conflict is only too plain, and yet it is impossible to admit, that the conflict can never be resolved, for it is necessary to govern mankind and it is necessary to transform men.

Perhaps we may say that the insight of the governors of men is, as it were, horizontal: they act in the present, with men as they are, with the knowledge they possess, with what they can now understand, with the mixture of their passions, and desires and instincts. They must work with the concrete and with the plainly and generally intelligible things.

The insight of the seers, on the contrary, is vertical: they deal, however wide their appeal, with each person potentially, as he might be transformed, renewed, and regenerated. And because they appeal to experience which men have not yet had, with things that are not at hand and are out of their immediate reach, with the invisible and the unattained, they speak and act, as Gandhi did, obscurely, appealing to the imagination by symbolic evocation and subtle example.

The ideals of human life which the seers teach — nonresistance, humility, and poverty and chastity —have never been and can never be the laws of a secular society. Chastity, consistently and habitually observed, would annihilate it. Poverty, if universally pursued, would plunge it into misery and disease. Humility and nonresistance, if they were the rule, would mean the triumph of predatory force.

Wisdom Understood

It is possible that the greatest seers and teachers did not know this, and that what they enjoined upon men was a kind of suicide and self-annihilation? Obviously not. Their wisdom was not naive, and it can be understood if we approach it not as rules of conduct but as an insight into the economy and the order and the quality of the passions.

At the summit of their wisdom what they teach is, I think, not how in the practical issues of daily life men in society can and should behave but to what ultimate values they should give their allegiance. Thus the injunction to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's is not a definite political principal which can be applied to define the relation of church and state. It is an injunction as to where men shall have their ultimate obligations, that in rendering to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, they should not give to Caesar their ultimate loyalty, but should reserve it.

In the same manner to have humility is to have in the last reaches of conviction, a saving doubt. To embrace poverty is to be without possessiveness and a total attachment to things and to honors. To be nonresistant is to be at least noncompetitive.

The Seers' Goal

What the seer points towards is best described in the language of St. Paul as the creation of the new man. "And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." What is this new man? He is the man who has been renewed and is "no longer under a schoolmaster," whose passions have been altered, as Gandhi sought to alter the passions of his countrymen, so that they need no discipline from without because they have been transformed from within. Such regenerated men can, as Confucius said, follow what their hearts desire without transgressing what is right. They are "led of the spirit" in the Pauline language, and therefore they "are not under the law."

It is not for such men as them that governments are instituted and laws enacted and enforced. These are for the old Adam. It is for the aggressive, possessive, carnal appetites of the old Adam that there are punishments and rewards, and for his violence a superior force.

It is only for the regenerate man, whose passions have been transformed, that the discipline of the law and of power are no longer needed, nor any incentive or reward beyond the exquisite and exhilarating wholesomeness and unity and freedom of his own passions.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Feb. 3, 1938.

Delegates of "little business" adopted, over many shouted protests, a program of advice to the Roosevelt administration which included a recommendation that the government supply financial aid by stimulating private credit.

A. P. Russell, 55, superintendent of the Union county schools, died of a heart attack and indigestion as he sat at the breakfast table with his family in his home at Marysville.

Miss Audrey Bolander was hostess and also gave a travelogue when the Quest club met at her home. She took her guests in an imaginary tour of the "Seven Wonders of the Ancient World."

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Ingmire of Jackson street and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Sherer of near Marion.

Mrs. Blanche Metz was elected president of the Loyalty Bible class of the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, at a meeting held with Mrs. Charles Lamb of North Seffner avenue.

Twenty-nine new automobiles were sold in Marion county during the month of January according to a record in the office of Clerk of Courts Carl F. Haberman. There were 135 used cars and three new trucks sold.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Feb. 3, 1928.

Martial law was in effect at Fall River, Mass., following a conflagration in which 65 buildings were destroyed, resulting in a loss estimated at $25,000,000.

Marion's new Junior Chamber of Commerce was at the head of a movement which it was thought might result in an airport being established here.

J. L. Ackerman, president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., announced that six huge excavating machines to be used in construction of the 1,000-mile Turkestan railway project had been sold by the company to the Russian government.

Leland Sour of Tiffin was appointed assistant to Roland Leeper, service manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau.

Mrs. Harvey T. Gracely entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home on East Church street complimenting her mother, Mrs. John Wolford, on her birthday anniversary.

Harding High school defeated Galion at basketball, 22 to 16. Gillis and Garrett each pitched five field baskets for Marion. Cram two and Partridge and Lewis one each. For Galion Campbell scored two baskets and Sawyer, Calendar and Burnison, one each.

David C. Miller, 63, Marion Steam Shovel Co. employe, died at his home on Davids street.

Russians Flee Home Soil

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON—In these dark times, it is heartening that the hope of freedom should always survive, even in the minds of men and women formed and conditioned to servitude. This truth has been amply proven, it can now be disclosed on highest authority, by something very like a mass exodus from the Soviet zone of Germany. Secretly, by stealth and in danger, Russians of every kind and class have been crossing the border into the western zones, ever since the end of the war.

This is no matter of a Kravchenko, or two, who finds himself beyond the dread reach of the secret police and chooses freedom because it is fairly easy to do so. The total of those who have fled, according to an estimate from an undoubted source, is above 5,000 men and women.

Nor are these French emigrees, scuttling from the guillotine, or Jewish refugees, fleeing from the terror of the Nazi Reich. They have nothing to fear which is not feared by every other citizen of the Soviet state. They have no reason for discontent which is not shared by 180 million others. They are simply Russians, who have been willing to risk their lives and to estrange themselves forever from the land that gave them birth, in order to escape the iron grip of the Soviet system. History affords no parallel for such mass disloyalty. And what makes the phenomenon all the more incredible, all the more meaningful, is the presence among those who have fled of a disproportionately high percentage of those whom the Soviet system has most generously favored and trusted.

Soldiers in Minority

Only 40 per cent of the total are simple Russian soldiers. A full 60 per cent are officers or officials, and of these officers and officials, nearly half have occupied posts above the middle rank of importance. One is a colonel general, from Marshal Sokolovsky's staff. Several others also come from high in the military hierarchy. And still others left behind key jobs at the topmost level of the civilian administration of the Soviet zone.

The need for secrecy, which has veiled this strange movement from the eyes of the world, still persists to a degree which makes it hard to give details. It can be said, however, that considerable numbers of the refugees have come from the Czechoslovak rest homes, maintained by the Soviets at Karlsbad and elsewhere. Yet others have come from Berlin, and even from deep in the Soviet zone. A good many at first actually succeeded in escaping with their families.

Counter-measures to halt the exodus were taken by the Soviets some time ago. In order to have hostages from their personnel in Germany, they ordered home all dependents of the Soviet military government staff and occupation forces. They also required almost all Russians soldiers and civilians remaining in Germany to move into centralized, guarded barrack areas. Yet even these counter-measures have not been successful. The exodus still continues.

In the American zone of Germany, those who have fled must masqueradee as expellees from the eastern regions occupied by the Russians and Poles. An agreement for mutual return of deserters was made between ourselves and the Russians at the end of the war. In so far as he was able, General Lucius D. Clay has not broken the agreement. No such agreement controls the British, and a larger proportion of those who have fled have passed into the British zone. And already, substantial groups have been permitted to move onward, out of Germany, to South America and elsewhere.

Denials Likely

All these facts are likely to be denied, by General Clay quite honestly, by the British authorities for convenience and by the Soviets to save face. (Marshal Sokolovsky has constantly pressed for power to bring back those who have fled, to judgment and to death; yet even while insisting that he must have this power he has never admitted the extent of the exodus.) No denials, however, can alter the truth of the facts as set forth. If anything, this report underdescribes the drama of this new underground railway from slavery to freedom.

As to the drama's meaning or moral, it should be drawn with care. It is too easy to forget what has now been proved beyond dispute, that the staggering total of more than a million Russians, recruited on Soviet soil, fought for the Nazis in the army of General Vlasov. Nor were these easy turncoats. Battles of Russians against Russians were among the bloodiest and most terrible of the war. Yet the victory in the war went, in the end, to the Soviet state.

On the other hand, this phenomenon of the exodus from the Soviet zone, like the recruitment of the Vlasov army, clearly implies a deep inner weakness behind the imposing, monolithic Soviet facade. And in the present world contest, that gives grounds for hope. The Soviets will triumph over weakness, disunity and disorder. But they must eventually come to terms if they are confronted with firmness, unity and strength. Therein lies the historic American task.

Consider February

THIS is a piece about February, written at request of the Association for the Prevention & Promulgation of February.

Naturally, the association expects a lot of praise and fluff, but it will be disappointed. There isn't much that can be said in favor of February aside from the fact that it starts the end of it the first vernal stirrings occur.

The very word February is tricky. It is a pupils in spell-downs and also is the most mispronounced month. Because of the sounds it's come out when they attempt to say it are children, and adults too have been suspected having cleft palates.

To go back before the days of Romulus and Remus and through trains, the original Roman calendar had neither January nor February. The early Romans added these months and at the reign of King Numa Pompilius January was placed at the beginning of the year and February at the end. February has had an inferiority complex ever since.

In 452 B. C., February was given the No. 2 spot in the parade of months but it still has the sulks because it was endowed with less days than other months. The Anglo-Saxons called it month Sprout-Kale, and that didn't help matters, either.

Regarding the origin of the name, the dictionary says, and I quote, L. februarius, fr. fem. pl. feast of purification held on the 15th of the month; perh akin to Gr. thyein, to burn, to sacrifice, L. fumus, smoke, vapor. See FUME. Close quote. This may explain why so many people fume about the weather in February.

February's dark pride has been stained somewhat by the number of eminent men who were born in it, also by the fact that it has St. Valentine's Day and Candlemas. In ancient Rome February also was the occasion for Lupercalia when the men took after their women with goat thongs.

Poets and composers have been notably mute concerning February. Some years back there was a farish novel called "February Hill," but this referred to a topographical eminence, not the month.

Annual February occurrences are the entraining of major league ball clubs for southern camps, the recording of a fantastically low temperature at Winnemucca, Nev., and the Mardi Gras celebrations at New Orleans, Rio de Janeiro and other French-Latin cities.

February means well, but it is not a happy time in the north temperate zone. Winter's heavy hand is still on the land. If there isn't snow there's slush.

This year February goes pious on us and has five Sundays. The year it has six Sundays it will be my favorite month.

On Weather

By TRUMAN TWILL

Weather is always catching Americans with their philosophy down. This is what we mean.

Americans expect the best weather there can be. If they go to Florida in the winter, they expect sunshine. If they stay home, they expect a perfect winter. They do this because the worst weather there can be is too grim to think about.

Yet, the worst is just as much a part of weather as the best and the in-between. The fact people don't like to think about it results in lack of preparation for dealing with it, either physically or mentally.

There isn't a community in the country right now that isn't going through a physical and mental crisis over lousy weather. The United States has been backed into a corner by conditions that should have been expected but weren't.

People are short of fuel and patience. They are living in a psychology of crisis and emergency because they lacked the courage to expect what they had coming. Now that it's here they're getting panicky and trying to fight back.

It's like the sham battle each fall with the leaves. Instead of taking leaves for granted people knock themselves out trying to gather them up as fast as they fall. When snow falls—and snow's harder to wrestle than leaves—they knock themselves out trying to gather that too. The fact is that most of the leaves would blow away and all the snow and ice would melt.

The only sensible thing to do about winter is to be prepared for the worst to happen, then when it happens let it alone. It hardly needs to be pointed out that the country was neither prepared for the worst nor to let it alone this year.

Winter is being called a crisis. It isn't. It's on the calendar like spring and summer. Next spring when the floods come they'll be called a crisis. They won't be. Floods happen all the time.

Next summer if a drouth occurs, it will be called a crisis. But the only crisis will be in the minds of saps who have been thinking wishfully that the United States is never going to have another drouth. Floods, drouths, heat waves, high winds, ice on Texas lakes, frost in the Deep South, 25 inches of snow in New York City—they're all details of the unpredictable thing called weather.

Unpredictable? Not really. It can be predicted with the utmost certainty that weather will be bad, also good. There also will be a lot of days between kinds. These are the ups and downs of normal weather. Yet every time they happen they catch us unprepared. It doesn't make sense.

Lynch Law in Decline

In at least 31 instances during 1947, lynchings were prevented in the United States. This big total of prevention apparently explains why there was only one person lynched during the year, five less than 1946 and the same as the record for 1945.

Records compiled by Tuskegee Institute show there were six borderline lynching cases during 1947, but records on these are too vague to permit classification. Aside from them, the only known lynching was that of Willis Earle, 21-year-old Negro accused of stabbing and robbing a white taxicab driver in South Carolina. In 31 instances in which lynchings were prevented officers of the law intervened in 24 cases. Intended victims saved themselves in four cases, two persons were saved by private individuals and one lynch victim survived bullet wounds after being left by a lynching mob as dead. A total of 39 persons—33 Negroes and 6 whites—were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs. During the year 44 persons were under indictment as participants in lynchings or attempted lynchings; 44 were acquitted.

Tuskegee Institute records show that the number of lynchings has been declining since the turn of the century, when the total invariably exceed 100. By 1911 it had dropped under 75 for the first time. From 1936 on it stays under 10.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

SO Shirley Temple's a mother I feel, as the poet said, "chilly and grown old." Don't you?

No news could make an entire generation of men more aware of the passing of time than the announcement that the screen's one-time favorite moppet now has a daughter of her own.

Why, wasn't it just yesterday that she took our hearts with her treble voice and chubby dancing legs in "Stand Up and Cheer?" You mean that was way back in 1934?

Where have the years gone?

It isn't fair. It isn't fair at all. Shirley was the "Peter Pan" of our time, the symbol of childhood that never grows up, but is always fresh and fair and new.

Hal Boyle

No child in history ever took the world's heart more. Natural and unspoiled, she was the child that everyone yearned to have—pretty, warm-hearted, laughing and mischievous.

Each film — "Baby Takes a Bow," "Bright Eyes," "Little Miss Marker," "The Little Colonel," "Wee Willie Winkie" "Heidi" and all the others—only sealed her conquests.

She was a junior ambassador on celluloid for America. It wasn't just the kids who were crazy about her, although they were, too. When Shirley's face clouded up on the screen in dimpled woe, theater managers had to put soft carpets on the floor to dim the sound of falling tears shed by old bachelors and spinster in the audience.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS of mothers across the land trotted their youngsters to dancing schools and vocal lessons, hoping by some legerdemain to change them into Shirleys. She became a kind of Madame Schiaparelli in the world of juvenile styles. For six years she was one of the ten top money makers among the movie stars, and she paid more in income taxes than Franklin Roosevelt got for running the country.

In her golden reign a man could get into a fist fight merely by stating he didn't like Shirley Temple. Wherever she traveled, she received the 24-karat welcome usually reserved for royalty and in her way she was about the nearest thing to a princess this democracy has ever had.

IN THOSE YEARS Adolf Hitler rose and fell and a world went to war, Alphonse Capone has gone underground, Man O'War is dead, and Babe Ruth no longer points at the place in the bleachers where he is going to knock the next ball.

Changes that touch all things touched Shirley, too. While we were busy with other things she just went ahead and grew up. The little girl in curls went into the cocoon of retirement and emerged a woman.

Something that was eternal—the spirit of childhood for which all adults are homesick—went with her baby curls.

It was bad enough to see Jack Coogan getting bald—and remember his timeless portrayal in "The Kid." But Shirley Temple a mother!—that really gives us all a feling of doddering antiquity.

Where did the years fly so fast? The next thing you know we'll be hearing Santa Claus has retired on an old age pension.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

Mrs. Olive Burns

Word has been received here by Mrs. Walter Bryan of 394 West Church street of the death of Mrs. Olive Mae Burns, 67, of the West Church street address who had gone to Florida for the winter. Mrs. Burns died Tuesday in a rest home in Tampa, Fla. She went to Florida in November and became seriously ill several weeks ago. She had planned to return to her home here in the spring.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Edith Boen of Ashland, O., a brother, Lee Imhoff of Philadelphia, Pa., and two grandchildren. Her husband, Frank, and a son preceded her in death.

The body is to be shipped to Ashland, O., where funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Gilbert funeral home. Burial will be in Ashland.

ITU Holds Taft-Hartley Law Unconstitutional

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 3 — The International Typographical Union has challenged the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley law in an action filed in federal district court here.

The brief charges that the section (10-J) of the law, which gives the national labor relations board the right to ask federal courts for injunctions is "repugnant to the due process clause of the federal Constitution.

It was filed yesterday in answer to a suit filed Jan. 16 in which the NLRB asked an injunction to prevent the ITU from violating the Taft-Hartley law.

The brief also asked dismissal of the NLRB suit on the grounds it was brought by the board's regional director for the NLRB instead of by the NLRB itself.

Early settlers of Cape Town, South Africa, were French Huguenots fleeing religious persecution in 1688.

THE HOME of the bride's parents was the scene of the wedding Friday Jan. 30, of Miss Virginia Marie Stuckey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Stuckey of 845 Cherry street, to John R. Smoot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smoot of 43 West [illegible] street, Cincinnati, O. The double ring ceremony was read at 11:30 o'clock in the morning by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Only the immediate families attended.

Attending the bride as bridesmaid was her sister, Barbara, and her niece, little Miss Barbara Jean Stepnagel of Chillicothe, O., was flower girl. Theodore Stepnagel of Chillicothe, brother-in-law of the bride, served Mr. Smoot as best man.

The bride chose for her wedding a white moire dress, and her sister wore a dress of orchid moire. Both were styled alike with tight fitting bodices button trimmed down the front, elbow length sleeves and ballerina length skirts. The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and she wore an orchid corsage. Miss Stuckey's corsage was of gardenias. The flower girl was attired in a white dress and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

A wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony at a table centered with a bouquet of red roses and a tiered wedding cake.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Smoot were graduated from Miami university at Oxford, O., in June, 1947. Mrs. Smoot is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority and Mortarboard. She is now employed as an art instructor in the Cincinnati public schools. Mr. Smoot was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1943. Mr. Smoot is affiliated with Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He is employed as industrial engineer at the Globe-Wernicke Co. in Cincinnati.

The couple are residing at 2625 Scioto avenue in Cincinnati.

MEMBERS of the Woman's Board of the Marion City hospital will meet Wednesday at Ringer's Inn. Hostesses will be Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, Mrs. David W. Evans and Mrs. Lowell H. Gatnery.

When the Octa club met at Ringers on Friday evening, Mrs. Clara Belle Sinning was a guest. Hostess was Mrs. Clyde Masters. High scores in cards went to Mrs. Masters and Mrs. Raymond Sosey. Mrs. Carl Drollinger won floating award. For the next meeting, to be held at Ringer's inn, Mrs. Herman Wykle will be hostess.

Mrs. Rose Alice Rowland was hostess to the N.O.C. club Thursday evening at her home at 403½ Silver street. Cootie was played with high honors going to Mrs. Mary Emerson and low to Mrs. Marilyn Reinwald. The penny box award went to Mrs. Thelma Skinner. At the next meeting, Feb. 12, with Mrs. Juanita Hatch of 595 Lee street, a Valentine exchange among secret sisters will be held.

Mrs. Charles Reid of North Vine street was hostess for a meeting of the M.N.O. Bridge club recently at her home. Awards were won by Mrs. Helen Norris and Miss Betty Williams.

At a tea Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Youngblood of 283 Thew avenue, announcement was made of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Jean, and Richard Drollinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Drollinger of 231 Ellis place. The wedding will be an event of May. For the tea, Miss Youngblood's wedding colors of blue and yellow were carried out. The bride elect was graduated from Harding High school last June and is employed in the office of the Berlou Mfg. Co. Her fiance was graduated from Harding in 1944, was in service in the navy two years, and is now enrolled at Ohio Northern university at Ada.

Couple To Wed At Kirkpatrick Sunday, Feb. 22

MR. and Mrs. Walter G. Lyon of [illegible] Road are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Margaret, to Harold B[illegible], son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. [illegible] of the B[illegible] road. The couple have chosen Sunday, Feb. 22, as the date for their wedding which will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Kirkpatrick Church of Christ. The pastor, Rev. R. F. Strickler, will officiate, and the ritual of open church will be observed.

Miss Lyon attended Bowling Green State university and is a member of Phi Mu fraternity. She is now employed as an elementary teacher in the Prospect schools. Her fiance is a graduate of Mt. Zion High school and is engaged in farming.

ed the task of reorganizing it. He did the job so well that one of the directors remarked: "If you have a sick corporation, send for Lamont. He will make it well."

A man of great personal charm and of impeccable reputation, in addition to his rare abilities, he was consulted by presidents, prime ministers and banking authorities the world over.

He, with the late Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co., was one of President Herbert Hoover's principal financial advisers and the private telephone wire between the White House and 23 Wall Street was in constant use during financial crises.

He had been much in the public eye before that when he attended the Versailles peace conference as representative of the United States Treasury and adviser to President Woodrow Wilson on economic and financial affairs.

When in 1915 the Anglo-French loan commission under Lord Chief Justice Reading, came to the United States the elder J. P. Morgan designated Lamont and Davison to join him in negotiating a $500,000,000 loan. Mr. Lamont later accompanied the late Chief Justice of England and his associates to Chicago where they met bankers from the middle west.

In 1920, at the invitation of the Department of State and the British and French foreign offices, he visited China and Japan to complete arrangements for a consortium for the assistance of China. He made another visit to the Far East in 1927. Throughout the 1920's he made yearly trips to Europe in the interests of post-war reconstruction.

In 1929, with Owen D. Young, J. P. Morgan and Thomas N. Perkins, he was a delegate to what became known as the "Young Plan" conference on reparations in Paris. As chairman of the American section, he attended the Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce at Brussels.

He differed with the "New Deal" financial policies of the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt but favored the trade agreements fostered by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

SILVER STREET WORK PLANNED

Board Arranges To Proceed With School Building Addition and Improvement.

Work of constructing an addition to the Silver Street school building and improvement of the present structure will get under way following the close of the present term of school, according to plans outlined at the monthly meeting of the City board of education last night in the school administration building.

Meeting with the board was Supt. Lester L. Dickey, who yesterday took over the superintendency of the Marion public schools.

Carrying out a part of the school building program approved by the voters in May 1946 the board authorized a revision of plans for the construction of the addition and other improvements to the Silver Street building and the submission of bids for the work to be made as soon as the plans can be drawn. According to plans the cost is not to exceed $150,000, this to include the electrical work which already has been done in the building.

Two Teachers Resign

Other business coming before the board included the resignation of two teachers, appointment of one to fill a vacancy, approval of an increase in building rentals and a discussion of school affairs with Supt. Dickey. Following the business session the board received a delegation appearing in the interest of the Angels, semi-pro football team. The team is seeking use of the Harding stadium for games next season. In the group were Herman Miller, representing city council, Charles Morbitt and R. L. Ruhlman of the AMVETS, Sid Tennant of the Marion Angels and Gene Fetter, coach of the team.

Appealing to the board of education, after having been refused use of the field by the school athletic association, the delegation was informed that since the supervision of the field had been placed in the hands of the athletic committee, the board is in no position to take any action.

Welcome Superintendent

Frank C. Robinson, vice president, presided for the meeting, during which the board extended a formal welcome to Supt. Dickey and assured him of their support and cooperation. In response Mr. Dickey expressed his appreciation of the confidence of the board and his pleasure and that of his family in coming to Marion. In speaking of the city schools Supt. Dickey described as "outstanding" the work of his predecessor, adding that he had heard from many residents of Marion and elsewhere of the fine work done by Mr. Holt in schools and civic affairs. He assured the board he would try to maintain this standard.

Upon recommendation of Supt. Dickey the resignations of Miss Margaret Dumm, art instructor in the junior-senior high schools, and that of Miss Donna R. Fogt, instructor in English 7 at Edison Junior High school, were accepted. Employment of Mrs. Charlotte Schaeffer to fill the vacancy at Edison Junior High school effective Feb. 3, was authorized by the board.

Approves Rental Raise

Carrying out suggestions made by former Superintendent Holt and Levi Welch, superintendent of buildings and grounds, Supt. Dickey presented recommendations for increase of rentals of school buildings. The move, taken after a study of building rentals in which it was brought out that the present schedule was not sufficient to cover expenses of opening rooms and buildings for other than school activities, the board approved the following increases rental of the auditoriums at Central and Edison junior high schools from $5 to $7.50 per evening or $10 per evening if heat is provided; rooms in elementary buildings $3 per evening. Where admission is charged and the auditoriums are rented for other than school activities, the present rate of $25 will be continued. Approved also was the following schedule for additional payments to custodians: $4 per evening if auditorium is used; $3 for gymnasium used for games; $2 for gym used for practice and $2 for elementary building use.

A request from the audio-visual committee asking that Claire Tettemer of Ohio State university be invited to come to Marion to work with the teachers on audio-visual aides, was approved by the board. The visit of Mr. Tettermer here would entail no expense other than transportation and hotel accommodations, Supt. Dickey stated, and he recommended that a two-day schedule be set up to allow Mr. Tettermer to work with teachers here.

Bills in the amount of $23,709.10 were approved.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

MINISTERS ARRANGE PLANS FOR FUTURE

Program for Holy Week Included by County Group.

Plans were made for various future activities when the Marion County Ministerial association met at the Y M C A Monday. It was announced that the annual union Good Friday service will be held in Epworth Methodist church and that the program will be based on the seven last sayings of Christ.

Dr V E Busler, pastor of Epworth church, stated that arrangements are being made for a counseling clinic for ministers during Holy Week when Dr Hazen G Werner of Drew theological seminary will be at Epworth for a week's services.

Race relations Sunday was announced for Feb 8 with a special union service observance at Wesley Methodist church featuring a Negro attorney from Columbus as speaker. It was voted to set aside the regular program of the March ministerial meeting in order to work on code for minimum standard requirements for marriage of couples to be recommended for adoption by all ministers of the county.

For the program, Dr Edwin A. Brown, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, reviewed "A Primmer of Protestantism" by Nichols. The Ministerial association was requested by C Raymond Smith of the Marion Business college to furnish a speaker for a devotional period at the school once each month. Mr Smith stated that other religious groups in the county will be asked to provide speakers also. Rev L V Baugess, who is leaving the pastorate of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church to become pastor of a Presbyterian church in Washington, D C, spoke in appreciation of the Ministerial association, with which he has been affiliated. By motion of the group it was arranged to send to Washington a letter of commendation in regard to the part Rev Baugess has taken in affairs of the association and of the community here. Rev. R. W. Faulkner made a request for material to be published as daily Lenten devotions on the theme of the cross.

Young Woman Held On Larceny Charge

Kay Ann West, 18, of 212 C[illegible] avenue was bound over to the Marion county grand jury after pleading guilty to a charge of grand larceny when she appeared in municipal court today. She is held in county jail with bond set at $500.

The affidavit for her arrest, signed by Chief of Police William E Marks, stated that she took $190 from Edward W Drollinger at 161 Garden street on or about Feb 3.

She was arrested at 1.33 a m today by the police at the Garden street address. The theft was made known to police at 8.40 p. m.

REPORT BIG SLUMP IN MEAT PRODUCTION

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb 3—The second largest slump in the history of meat producion is in prospect for 1948, A Z Baker, board chairman of the Cleveland Union Stockyards and president of the American Stockyards association declared today.

"A total tonnage of 2,000,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 pounds below the 1947 volume is in prospect," Baker asserted. "Only 1935, as a result of the corn crop failure in the 1934 drought year had a bigger decline in meat output."

Baker said the sharing of grain supplies with Europe has put a squeeze on domestic livestock production and numbers have declined more than 10 per cent since the peak of Jan 1, 1945. In his opinion, it will take 10 years to restore livestock numbers to that level.

"Prices of all meats and livestock will be as high or higher in 1948 than the all-time records established in 1947 unless there is a widespread business recession," he predicted. "Meat supplies per capita in 1948 will average 146 pounds, 10 pounds less than in 1947 but 20 pounds more than the 1935-39 average."

"Three factors," he said, "will probably determine the livestock and meat price outlook in 1948: wheat, labor relations and foreign relations. If wheat, corn and other crops escape too much or too little rain such as delayed last spring's planting and hurt last fall's harvesting, food costs could lead the way to more stable prices."

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY DEMOCRATIC WOMEN

Mrs. Harry Armstrong Again Heads County Group.

Mrs Harry Armstrong of LaRue was reelected president of the Woman's Division of the Marion County Democratic club Monday night in Democratic headquarters. A potluck dinner was held by the Woman's Division and the Marion County Democratic club preceding the meeting.

3 Men Indicted On Forgery Charge

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Feb 3—Three men accused of setting up a small printing plant in a hotel room and forging checks for $59.48 on the Gibson-Stewart Co here were indicted on forgery charges yesterday by the Franklin county grand jury.

The three were registered as Davis J. Allen, 24, of Benson, N C, Earl E. Boyd, 28 of Marshaltown, Tenn, and his brother, Winfred C. Boyd, 24 of Morristown, Tenn.

Police who raided the hotel room said two other men escaped with part of the printing equipment. They said a small press, a check protector machine and rubber stamps were used.

Rev. L. A. Keil Going To New Pastorate

Rev Leo A Keil formerly of Marion, has resigned as pastor of the Davids Evangelical Reformed church at Canal Winchester to accept the pastorate of the First Evangelical and Reformed church at Wooster. He will take up his new pastorate April 1.

Rev Keil, son of Mr and Mrs Clarence A Keil, superintendent and matron at the Marion County Home, has served the Canal Winchester church since Oct 1, 1941. Before that time he was pastor of the church at Farmersville, O for nearly five years.

He received his training at Heidelberg college, Tiffin, and Eden Theological seminary at Webster Grove, St Louis, Mo. He formerly was a member of the First Evangelical and Reformed church here. Rev Keil and Mrs Keil, who was formerly Miss Marie Geiser, have two children, Eugene, aged 8 years, and Mary Ann, 4.

DR. PRUGH URGES BETTER HOME LIFE

Family Relationship Theme of Forum Speaker.

In one of his message here [illegible] Religion in Today in the Home, [illegible] of Heidelberg college [illegible] recommended [illegible] of a better relationship between parents and children. His appearance in Marion was made at the fourth hour of the Marion County School of Religion at First Evangelical and Reformed church Monday night. Rev J P Hol[illegible] presided and prayer at the opening of the forum session was offered by Rev John C[illegible].

Pointing out that homes were never better equipped materially than they are today, Dr Prugh laid the cause of the present day decline in home life at the door of a loss of respect for the basic authority of the home.

"Parents who do not respect the higher authority of God over their lives cannot expect children to hold respect for parents' and governments' attempts to maintain authority," he stated. "Those who have their lives regimented under the rule of Christ do not have the problems that others do," he continued.

"It is important to teach children in the home that instead of the fallacy generally believed that science is the key to solving all questions, rather it is the central truths of religion that count most," he declared. "As there are basic laws of order in nature which God has laid down so the child should be taught we too are a part of God's great enterprise and should seek to discover the harmony for us in His orderly plan, rather than each trying to make his own order and striving disastrously to be 'a law unto himself,'" he concluded. A question and answer period followed the address.

GIVES TALK ON COOLER PLANT

Official Squelches Rumors About Local Industry; Says It's Here To Stay.

[illegible] a series of programs [illegible] given regarding [illegible] in Marion was presented [illegible] weekly [illegible] meeting Monday at [illegible] speaker was [illegible] Scott, director of [illegible] Cooler division of [illegible] Detroit [illegible]

In his talk concerning the plant which manufactures condensers and freezing units and various parts for cooling systems, Mr Scott gave reasons for a slump in sales which has caused the closing down of parts of the plant and laying off of employes recently.

In answer to rumors which have been circulated recently intimating that the plant might be closed, Mr Scott gave assurance that the company is not leaving Marion, that company officials are not dissatisfied with labor relations and that the company intends to remain in Marion for a long time.

Reasons for the recent slump in sales are laid to five main causes, Mr Scott explained. They are, he said:

1. Lack of steel for manufacturers.
2. Dying off of postwar manufacturing companies that sprang up to take advantage of wide open markets, the local plant selling to manufacturers only.
3. Home and farm freezer manufacturers have fallen off 50 per cent.
4. The need of large remote units for export.
5. The old type freezing units are not wanted with the demand more for hermetically sealed units.

Mr Scott said the company recently bought out a plant in Bellefontaine which manufactures the new type of condensers. He displayed during his talk a new type three-cylinder and a one-cylinder sealed unit. He said company officials expect sales and employment to show an increase about the middle of March and from there on be strong.

Guests were Lion Harry Waxler of Prospect, president of the Prospect Lions club, C B Grubbs of Cleveland and H. W. Brentz of Farmington, Ill. Cub members present were Robert Garster, Robert Ruth and T. E. Sonnanstine.

U.S. AIMS PROTEST BLOW AT RUSSIA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 3—The United States aimed a counterpunch today in the war of words with Russia. It charged Communist-dominated Romania with violating its new peace treaty.

Secretary of State Marshall gave notice at the same time, however, that the United States is ready to discuss again the Soviet price for a peace treaty for Austria.

Marshall proposed that deputies of the Big Four foreign ministers council reconvene Feb 20 in London to take up the Russian demands. These include a 50-year concession on most of Austria's oil output and a lump sum payment of $200,000,000 in reparations.

The American protest to Romania charged that country with denying "human rights" and "fundamental freedoms" by crushing opposition to the Communists—all in violation of the peace treaty which went into effect last December.

GERHARD EISLER HELD FOR DEPORTATION

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 3—Counsel for Gerhard Eisler planned habeas corpus proceedings today in a move to effect release from Ellis island of the accused "No 1 Communist" of this country.

The 50-year-old Eisler, a native of Germany, was arrested yesterday on a deportation warrant and held without bail.

Justice department officials said the warrant under which Eisler was picked up does not permit bond. But Mrs Carol King, his New York lawyer, said she would begin habeas corpus action today in an attempt to free her client.

The justice department declined to discuss all details of Eisler's seizure but practical effect of his arrest, if it is sustained, would leave him in custody until he has served time, been deported, or both.

Eisler, until his arrest yesterday, had been free in $20,000 bail since being convicted in Washington, D C, last summer on charges of passport fraud and contempt of congress. He faces possible penalties in the two convictions totaling up to six years in addition to fines of $6,000.

LEWIS MOVE SEEN AS COAL STRIKE THREAT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 3—The fuel-conscious nation faced a possible threat from John L Lewis today of a nationwide soft coal strike by spring.

Lewis told the industry he feels free to "take any independent action necessary" to start benefit payments to miners out of their untapped, $50,000,000 welfare fund.

Lewis' cryptic note yesterday puzzled the mine operators.

Some said they fear it may mean an April 1 strike by the 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers union Lewis heads.

Reached at his home, the UMW chief said only "I wouldn't have any comment at all."

The welfare fund was established in the 1946 coal agreement worked out by the government and calling for a five cent a ton royalty payment on coal production.

Delegates and alternates from the Eighth District to the national GOP convention in Philadelphia also filed Monday afternoon with the board of elections.

They are C C O'Briant of Kenton, Hardin county delegate and O E Hilborn of Tiro, Crawford county delegate. Marion county has one of the alternates, Harold H Patrick of near Marion, and Wyandot county the other, Edwin S. Naus of Upper Sandusky. Democratic delegates and alternates have yet to file.

HITS RULE CHANGES IN RAIL DISPUTE

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Feb 3—Howard Neitzert, counsel for the nation's railroads, told a presidential emergency fact-finding board that demands of three railroad unions for 25 changes in work rules are "wage demands in disguise."

The board was appointed by President Truman after the engineers, firemen and switchmen's brotherhoods scheduled a strike in support of demands for the rule changes and a 30 per cent wage increase. It began gathering evidence in the dispute yesterday.

Neitzert said the demands for rules changes "do not represent a bona fide effort to correct unsatisfactory or improper working conditions, but are a subterfuge for obtaining additional wage increases."

He said the unions made the demands for the further purpose of "coercing the railroads into granting the unions' excessive wage demands."

The three brotherhoods originally set the strike for Feb. 1, but under terms of the national railway act, appointment of the fact-finding board automatically defers the strike for at least 30 days.

HINDU MOBS ATTACK ANTI-GANDHI GROUPS

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, Feb. 3—Throughout India today members of two militant Hindu groups which bitterly opposed Mohandas K. Gandhi's peace appeals were attacked by mobs enraged over the Hindu spiritual leader's assassination.

The Indian press said large numbers of both Mahasabha and the RSS were being arrested by police for questioning. Others were beaten and stoned.

Mahasabha—literally great organization—is a political body with branches all over India. It was formed in this century as a reply to the Moslem League. It seeks an India run solely by Hindu laws with no protection for Moslem rights at the expense of Hindus.

The kitchen and living room were badly damaged. Chief Johnson was felled by a falling brick when the rear wall collapsed. Dale Ziegler and Guy Cramer, both of the Ashley department were injured when a charred floor gave way beneath them. All were treated by an Ashley physician and released to their homes.

No estimate of damage to the two-story brick home has been made.

TOTAL NOW $5,831 IN MARCH OF DIMES

Containers collected yesterday by city firemen and coin packets received today brought contributions in Marion County's March of Dimes campaign to $5,831.89, Virgil F Dye, county chairman, reported today. Since yesterday the contributions received amount to $1,284.58, the figures show.

A number of the containers have not been collected and packets and contributions still are being received at the Central fire station where firemen are receiving the contributions and placing them in the bank.

Among the contributions received today are Triangle Hecklers $10, and the Altrurian club, Progressive Grange No. 2445 and the LaRue Business Women's club $5 each.

BUCKEYES UPSET WOLVERINES, 70-66

Sports Shorts

By BILL DIEM
Star Sports Editor

BESIDES serving as a pre-tournament test of strength, the game between the Irish of St. Mary and the Pleasant Township pers in Edison Junior High school tonight will probably stir up a lot of talk about the quality of basketball played by the county schools as compared to St. Mary.

The Irish always get the short end, for as Walter H Schuler, father of four great St. Mary athletes, [illegible] St. Mary has little to gain from getting even the best of the county schools, and stand to lose a lot of prestige if they go down. Since St. Mary is a bigger town, they are expected to win, though the best county teams year in and year out are generally on a par with the Irish cage teams. . . . The same philosophy applies to a mythical encounter between St. Mary and Harding. If the Irish should meet the Prexies this year, which isn't at all likely, and beat them, which is quite likely, the reverberation would probably shake down what's left of the ceiling in Harding High school.

Without risking any prediction about the outcome of tonight's game, let the fans at least be forewarned that Pleasant is a tough basketball team, as Caledonia and Morral and LaRue are and if they win, it proves it, and if they lose, it proves St. Mary is tough too.

VIC LOMBARDI INKS PITTSBURGH CONTRACT

By The United Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb 3—Pitcher Vic Lombardi and outfielder Max West have signed contracts to play with the Pittsburgh Pirates this year, general manager Roy Hamey announced today.

West, 31, had his biggest season last year with San Diego of the Pacific Coast league. He led the loop with 43 home runs and drove in 121 runs. Lombardi, a southpaw, was obtained from the Brooklyn Dodgers in a winter deal.

Ohio State's Surprise Throws Big 9 Into Tight Loop Race

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb 3—Ohio State [illegible] the world square in the eye today and quit talking about "moral victories."

The Buckeyes upset Michigan last night, knocking the Wolverines out of the Big Nine basketball lead, 70-66.

It was the high mark of a dismal basketball season and did much to salve past wounds from Michigan's three consecutive victories in football and two-straight in basketball.

Ohio State was tied for last in the Big Nine when the game started. But Coach Tippy Dye's sophomores operated as though they—instead of the Wolverines—were battling to retain the league lead.

They caught Michigan at 23-all, forged to a 36-27 halftime bulge, and were in front, 50-34 at one point of the second half. Michigan pulled within 67-66 with two minutes left, but Bob Burkholder sank a free throw and Bob Donham slipped in a "sleeper" to stop the Wolverines' title drive.

Toledo Wins

Elsewhere around the state, Toledo racked up its 15th win in 18 games, blasting Potomac State of West Virginia, 71-41; Xavier did the same, and avenged one of its three defeats, with a 56-37 rout of Ohio university; twice-beaten Wilberforce State scored its 10th win, 52-42 over Philander Smith of Arkansas. Wheaton, Ill., beat Rio Grande, 77-66, for the only blot on the night's inter-state card. The unbeaten Xavier freshmen downed Wilmington college's varsity in a prelim to the Xavier-Ohio U. game, 45-25.

Donham, returning to form after a bout with a blood infection, was Ohio State's big gun with 19 points. Four others—Dick Schnittker, Burkholder, Gene Brown and Bob Raidiger—got 10 or more.

Michigan Capt. Bob Harrison notched 20, while Wolverine Pete Elliott connected for 17. Both teams scored 28 field goals, but Ohio sang 14 of 20 free throws to Michigan's 10 of 11.

Xavier Swamps Bobcats

Xavier exploded for 21 points in the final 10 minutes to swamp Ohio U. It was nip and tuck until the Musketeers caught fire. The Bobcats led most of the first half, which ended 19-all. Xavier still is unbeaten at home.

Guard Dal Zuber's 24 points provided Toledo's biggest scoring punch. The Rockets broke ahead early and never were headed, leading at intermission, 38-23.

Newt Oliver bagged 26 points for Rio Grande to run his season total to 497. However, his teammates couldn't keep pace as Wheaton won handily.

Tonight's feature finds Capital risking its Ohio conference lead against second-place Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.

One Upset Can Change Pattern of Big 9 Race

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 3—The Big Nine basketball title scramble is so close that one upset can change the entire pattern of the leaders.

Michigan tumbled from first place into a tie with Purdue for fourth last night, while Iowa edged Northwestern 57-54 in an overtime battle at Iowa City. The Hawkeyes climbed into a second place tie with idle Illinois.

The Wolverines' loss enabled Wisconsin to regain the lead with a 5-2 record. Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Purdue also have two defeats and are lower in the standings only by virtue of not playing as many games as the Badgers.

In other midwest games last night Kevin O'Shea piled in 25 points to lead Notre Dame over Kentucky 64-55 and Marquette walloped Regis of Denver, 57-38. It was the 32nd straight home floor victory for the Irish in a string stretching back to 1943.

V.F.W., G.I. POST, NAVY CLUB WIN

Three games were played at the Armory last night as the Vet League basketball teams ended the first round of play.

V F W was lucky to win as they defeated Bird McGinnis, 32-30, to finish the first half of play with a five won and no loss record. Outfought and out passed throughout the whole game by the McGinnis team, V F W had to come from behind in the last nine seconds of the final quarter to take the championship. Williams paced the McGinnis five in the low scoring fray as he garnered seven points, while Coulter and Rice were getting nine each for the winners.

G I Post outscored the AMVETs by 10 points as they took the second game of the evening, 33-23. Miers led the Post in individual tallies with a total of 16 points, while Gilbert was best for the AMVETS with 11 markers.

In the final game of the evening, Company C, hampered by injuries, fell before Navy Club's attack, 27-21. Oehler, from his guard spot, sunk four fielders and one foul to pace the winners, while Sheppard made seven points to lead the losers.

Double Main Wrestling Card Set at Armory

A double main event wrestling card will be staged at the Armory Thursday night, consisting of two 90-minute matches with the two out of three falls winning.

To start the program there will be a return match between Paul Orth of Toledo and Len "Cowboy" Hughes of Boston who staged one of the roughest matches of the season last week at the Armory. In the return engagement they are going to throw away the book, and wrestle with no holds barred.

The second match will pit Bill Murray of Canada against Jack Popenheim who also wrestled at the Armory last week in a match that ended in a ninety minute draw.

NEW ORLEANS—Steve Brooks veteran jockey who was beaten by Johnny Longden in the race for most winners in 1947, is off to a good start this winter. He's riding here at the Fair Grounds which ends a 75-day meeting on March 6.

MERCHANTS, SMITH'S, SCHLAIRET WIN AT Y

In three games played in the Y.M.C.A. league last night, the Marion Merchants defeated Hensel Brothers, Schlairet Transfer took Green Camp, and Smith's Clothing dropped McMillen Feeds.

Smith's, led by Musolf who connected for 24 counters and Roseberry with 19, upset the favored McMillen five, 62-57. Winterstellar continued to pace the McMillen quint as he flipped 26 points for individual high score in the fray.

Hensel Brothers were surprised by a scrappy Marion Merchant team to the tune of a 52-33 as the Merchants took the lead in the second period and were never headed. Cusick, playing at forward for the Merchants, was successful on seven field goals and six fouls as he accumulated 20 points to lead the scoring for both teams. Vernon Hensel collected nine points to pace the losers.

For Schlairet, in the only game that went according to Hoyle, Harold Dillon took high scoring honors as he poured 13 two-pointers and three fouls through the meshes for a 29 point total as his team won, 76-52, over the Green Camp team. West made second high score with 10 counters, also for Schlairet, while Weston counted 18 for the losers.

Middies, Findlay Destined To Meet in Class A Finals

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb 3—The swashbuckling Gay Blades of Bladensburg are on the march again.

The Class B High school cagers from the Knox county village of 160, up to last Friday night had played 100 games in 10 seasons against county clubs. The Gay Blades had won one and lost 99.

But Friday night, after losing nine straight this year, Bladensburg met Centerburg—the club which back in 1935 beat the Blades 149 to 2. There was an overtime was Bladensburg 43, Centerburg 37.

All of which proves the Gay Blades believe, that the first 100 games are the hardest. For although they won only one of the first 100 tilts against county foes, the Blades are batting a thousand on the second hundred.

While the resurgent Blades were making history, Middletown and Findlay rolled right on in the Class A race toward what the folks believe is a date with destiny and each other in the finals of the state championship tourney two months hence.

Middies March On

The mighty Middies, state champ three of the last four years, wheeled to their 12th and 13th victories, 58-43 over Lima Central and 74-51 over Lima South. The Middies were without the services Saturday of All-Ohio Shelby Linville, who suffered a badly-injured ankle in the Central fray. Coach Jim Bowers of Lima South, whose team lost to both Findlay and Middletown, tagged the Middies the better team.

Findlay swamped a couple of comparatively weak teams, drubbing Kenton 70-23, and then handing Celina its 15th defeat of the year, 77-18. The victories were Findlay's 14th and 15th conquests, best record in the major loop. Mansfield Madison with a dozen victories, and Akron Garfield with 10, round out the Class A unbeaten contingent.

Class B has a few more unsullied records, Glenford and the mighty Glen Hursey pacing the pack with 23 victories. Hursey pounded the hop for 51 points in last week's 106-47 win over Somerset. Other undefeated teams, with the number of victories, were Ridgeville Corners 20, Freeman and Bremen 17, Belden 16, Middle Point and Enon 15, and Summerfield 13.

Scoring In Class B

Most of the heavy scoring is taking place in the Class B ranks where about 950 teams are battling. The high-average reported is boasted by Larry Schaeffer, senior forward on the unbeaten Belden high club of Lorain county. He has poured 534 points into the bucket in 16 games, for an average of a bit better than 33 per tilt.

Hursey of Glenford has 592 for 23 games, a 25.7 average, and a host of the boys are over the 20-point mark.

Biggest surprises last week were furnished by East Liverpool, last year's Class A runner up, which arose from a not-to-hot season to paste a 39-29 defeat on Salem to end that team's 10-game winning streak, although Bob Pager counted 21 for the losers; and Mansfield's Tygers, who halted Ashland's 11-game victory splurge by 52-37, with Nick Gagich caging 25 for the victors.

This and That

This and that: Newark, which won the state Class A title back in the 30's after losing 13 games during the regular season, is threatening again with a 10-3 record, having won the last [illegible] Gagich of Mansfield [illegible] the 15 games (11 [illegible] 4 [illegible]) breaking the school [illegible] record by a point and he [illegible] five games to go.

Ashtabula lost its record in 12 starts Friday. Sandusky's Blue Streaks winning 31-27 but the Blue Streaks' record of 6-4 appears due for another drop against Mansfield this week. . . . All of Findlay's five starters have more than 100 points for 15 games—a well-rounded attack.

Once-beaten clubs included Lima St. Rose and Rockford 17-1, Minster 16-1, New Knoxville 15-1, Sandusky St. Marys 16-1, Urbana 13-1.

PREXIES OUT TO COP WIN FROM DELAWARE

To Meet Panthers on the Foreign Court Tonight.

Harding's Prexies will be out to repeat an earlier season's showing tonight when they take to the road for the third successive week to engage the Delaware Willis courtmen on the Delaware court.

In their first meeting with the Panthers team, the Presidents won an easy victory as they hit for 60 points to 44 for the Willis five.

While the Prexies have been off the win column in their last two outings—taking it on the chin from a good Columbus West team last week, and a better Ashland squad the week before—they will be a tough squad to deny tonight when they put forth the supreme effort.

Dick Gherman paced the Prexies with 18 in the last encounter with the Willis crew, while Jim Coss and Dick Riddle each garnered 14 tallies for second honors.

The Delaware team, with only John Johnston back from last year's squad, have found the going rough thus far this season, having dropped the last six frays in league play and 11 of 15 games played. In their last start, the Panthers lost a heartbreaker to the Bexley Lions, 33-30.

Harding will keep the same starting five that was used against Columbus West last week with the exception of one guard post which will be filled by either Dick Leffler or Jim Rea. Jim Coss will be at the pivot position. Merle Daum and Dick Riddle at forwards, and Dick Thomas at the remaining guard spot. The Prexies will work a zone and man-to-man defense against the Panthers' revolving-8 offense.

Friday night, the Prexies entertain Galion on the Edison Junior High school hardwoods.

Harding Boosters To Show Brown Movies, Hear Coach

The Harding Booster club rounds out a successful year backing high school athletics and starts off a second-year [illegible] Feb 18 with Backfield Coach John Brickles of the All-America Conference champion Cleveland Browns and movies of the last Brown season at a featured [illegible] of an open meeting to be held in the Central Junior High school auditorium.

Brickles will give a running commentary on the movies of the highlights and interesting plays of the Browns' past season. John S. [illegible], Booster club president, reports that several Brown players will also be at the meeting.

The Booster club members are now [illegible] new members, [illegible] said and expect to turn out at the Feb 18 meeting with a squad of new Harding backers.

The meeting is set to start at 8 p.m.

John Brickles played for Wittenberg at the same time Head Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns was playing for Miami and the two coaches met on opposite sides in at least two encounters on the gridiron.

Later Brickles, New Philadelphia eleven faced Brown's Massillon juggernaut, and the two coaches developed a mutual respect and friendship.

After New Philadelphia, where his gridders won 38 out of 40 contests, and his 1938 cagers entered the Ohio finals, Brickles went to Huntington (W. Va.) High, and again turned out winning teams. During the six years he was there his basketball teams reached the state tournament four times, gained the finals twice and annexed the state championship in 1944.

He moved to the University of West Virginia from Huntington and is credited with moulding the Mountaineer cagers into the outfit that has been one of the nation's best for the past two seasons.

In April, 1945, he took up duties with the Browns, and the Browns, as everyone knows, have been the champions of the conference both years it has been in existence.

American Gains 2nd Place at Halfway Point in Olympic Skeleton Bobsled Race

By The Associated Press

ST. MORITZ, SWITZERLAND, Feb. 3—A second American ... in sight of a championship today while Norway was ... temporarily past Sweden for the team lead in the fifth ... Olympics.

... veteran of the skeleton bobsled, Jack Heaton of New ... Conn., turned in three ... down the suicidal open ... to gain a second place ... the halfway point of the ... run.

... accumulated time of ... utes, 23.2 seconds, shared ... Bibbia of Italy, was only ... tenths of a second back of ... leader, John Crammond, Brit... sailor and naval officer.

... move into the final three ... tomorrow.

... Button, 18-year-old ... wood, N. J., figure skating ... virtually assured himself ... championship when he led yes... through the compulsory ... ures—half of the title com... petition. Free skating, Button's specialty, is on schedule tomorrow.

These were other developments as the winter games hit the halfway pole with a stepped-up pace:

1. The United States' Amateur Hockey Association team won its third game in four starts, defeating Sweden, 5 to 2, to remain in the running for the title in the unofficial ice hockey round robin. Unbeaten Canada defeated Italy, 21 to 1.

2. Sweden's four-man distance ski team—Nils Oestensson, Nils Tapp, Gunnar Eriikkson and Martin Lindstrom—won the 40-kilometer (25-mile) ski relay in the Olympic record time of two hours, 32 minutes and eight seconds. The United States team withdrew.

3. On the strength of its ski victory Sweden supplanted Norway in the see-saw unofficial team standings, 49 points to the Norwegians' 39½.

4. John Werket, the 23-year-old youth from Minneapolis who was sixth in the 1,500 meter (metric mile) speed skating test yesterday, fell back in the longer 10,000 meter (6¼ mile test). His time of 19 minutes and 44 seconds was bettered by many early finishers.

TRIBE SENDS HEGAN ALTERED CONTRACT

Catcher Dissatisfied with First Three Offers.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3—A fourth contract in which the terms are "slightly altered" is on its way to catcher Jim Hegan, Cleveland Indians' business manager Rudy Schaffer reported today.

After an exchange of correspondence between the dissatisfied receiver and the Indians management, the latest document was mailed over the weekend, Schaffer said.

Hegan said at his home in Lynn, Mass., that he had not yet received the new contract, but he explained his position:

"It's simply that I'm dissatisfied with the money they offered. Yes, it was more than I got last year, but it was still not enough. The figure of my pay for last year that somebody quoted was all wrong. I didn't get that much."

Hegan was reported to have received about $12,000 last year when he batted .249 despite efforts of Rogers Hornsby, who was hired as a special instructor for Hegan and Pat Seerey last spring. Late in the season Hegan was relieved of signal-calling duties by Manager Lou Boudreau. The backstop recently countered with an assertion that it was a move by Boudreau to "save face."

Although his name was mentioned prominently in trade talk this winter, Hegan said he was anxious to stay with the Indians because he believes "we will have a mighty good ball club this year."

"I wouldn't want to be traded unless it was to Boston, which is close to home," he said. "There'll be a few difficulties to iron out, and I don't know what the Cleveland fans will think about me after all this, but I do want to play for the Indians."

While the Tribe was trying to reach agreement with Hegan three more contracts were received, bringing the club's total of signatures to 21 out of 37.

The three signers announced today were outfielder Thurman Tucker, recently acquired by trade from the Chicago White Sox; and two 24-year-old rookies, Ray Boone, catcher and shortstop from Oklahoma City in the Texas league and Mike Garcia, right-hand pitcher who won 17 and lost 10 for Wilkes-Barre in the Class A Eastern league.

BOWLING SCORES

The 698 series Don Winters rolled Friday night at the Palace Rec stands the highest series score in league competition since the Palace opened nine years ago. Winter's new record surpasses the former high for this season of 689 set by Bill Barber of the Classic league four weeks ago. Don Greenland has a higher score, 717, but his score was set in the doubles tourney held last spring.

Bowlers in the Independent league were led by Owen of the Schaffner team in series, who broke 600 by 5 and took single game honors with 245.

On the Marion Rec alleys of high singles in the City league were bowled by T. Harvey, 210, J. Cochran, 203, and O. Campbell, 201.

BLAME GAS LINE LEAK

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Feb. 3—Firemen said today they believed a gas line leak caused the Sunday night blast which wrecked a house, killed a baby girl and injured three persons seriously. Mrs. Ruth Ross, 24, mother of 18-month-old Sharon Ann Ross who was killed, and Mrs. Ida Venosdle, 75, were in critical condition today at Mercy hospital; and Marion Vernier, 27, of Louisville was in serious condition at Aultman hospital.

WRIGHT BROTHERS REST SIDE BY SIDE

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Feb. 3 — The Wright brothers, who gave wings to the world 44 years ago, rested side-by-side today in hilly old Woodland cemetery.

Orville Wright, who died last Friday, joined his older brother, Wilbur, yesterday as the military and civilian worlds paid final respects.

The rites drew 800 persons to the First Baptist church, another 1,000 to the street outside, and hundreds to curbs along the two-mile funeral route.

Four F-80 jet fighter planes whistled overhead at intervals, but one place in their precise battle formation was vacant in Wright's honor.

Inside the church, Dr. Charles L. Seasholes declared Orville was "a man who was just one of folks like us—middle class, mid-western American, with simple, devout parents and a simple and modest way of life."

The capacity crowd included members of the Army and Navy Air Forces, ranked by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commanding general of the Air Materiel Command at nearby Wright Field.

For 35 minutes Dr. Seasholes eulogized the shy aviation pioneer, who avoided public acclaim with intense purpose.

Outside the crowd milled and pushed against guarding policemen. One of them, Patrolman Joseph Yenger, said to a reporter:

"You know Mr. Wright would not want this. He never pushed himself in and never made a to-do in his life. Get back there, lady .... No, he wouldn't want this."

WANTS MURAL OF WRIGHTS ON CAPITOL DOME

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio) wants congress to recognize achievements of the Wright brothers with a painting in the capitol dome.

Jenkins has a bill to that effect pending and asked that it be given consideration. A similar bill passed the house in 1941 but died in the senate.

Jenkins wants authorization to fill an unfinished portion of the dome's historical frieze with a picture depicting the invention of the airplane.

Herbert Fires State Purchasing Agent

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3 — John W. Harvey, state purchasing agent, says he has resigned, effective Feb. 15, at Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's request.

Harvey, of Wapakoneta, announced his resignation last night and said he was unable to learn why he was fired.

Later, Governor Herbert, visiting at Cleveland, said he was "not satisfied with the efficiency of the purchasing division."

Harvey told reporters the governor informed him Saturday he was to be replaced, "but gave no reasons."

Harvey was promoted from fiscal officer in the state treasurer's office to purchasing agent last April 1. The job pays $6,666 a year.

There are about 164,000 Quakers of which about 114,750 are in the United States.

Honorary Boy Scout Group Has Meeting

A meeting of Marion lodge of the Order of the Arrow, an honorary Boy Scout organization for honor campers sponsored by the National Boy Scouts of America, was held Thursday night in the local Scout office. Wallace Musgrave presided in the absence of the chief, Dick Bracy. Members present included several from Kenton. Vern Orth, a former leader of the Marion group, was also present. He is a junior this year at Ohio State university.

Projects of service for the lodge were discussed. Under this, members are planning to make new tags to identify the various species of trees on the nature trail at Camp Owens. A committee was named to be in charge of the Order of the Arrow window during Boy Scout week, and a committee was appointed to complete plans for a social event in the near future. New members of the lodge were instructed in making Indian costumes for the initiation ceremonies.

BUILDING WHITE HOUSE BALCONY. Workmen are shown constructing the much-discussed balcony addition to the south portico of the White House. They are erecting a steel balustrade atop a steel girder which will support the balcony. A number of representatives and architects have criticized President Truman for planning and carrying out the structural change.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Secretary Anderson says full employment and good wages have a bearing on the meat shortage . . . . Evidently too many people are working to bring home the bacon.

• • •

The secretary says the day will come though when we will have to learn to live happily with abundance . . . Right now we're having no difficulty living unhappily without it.

• • •

But it looks as though we might be too busy for sometime to have a depression although there are some optimistic predictions.

• • •

Anyway I hear Herbert Hoover has engaged counsel in the event that anyone should try to pin this rap on him.

• • •

It is his feeling that one depression will last him a lifetime and he is willing that someone else would play the title role in any revival.

• • •

All I know is that a new delicatessen opened in my block yesterday and they put the first 98 cents' worth in a frame over the cash register with a note reading "hot meat and potatoes."

Dr. C. E. Hershey Speaks At Radnor Meeting

Dr. C. E. Hershey, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church, was guest speaker at an annual "family night" party held by the B. F. D. class of the Radnor Baptist church Tuesday night, Jan. 27, at the church. Dr. Hershey's subject was "Missions."

Rev. A. M. Hill was in charge of the service which opened with group singing, reading of scripture taken from the Book of Romans, and prayer by Rev. S. P. Sedziol of West Mansfield. Dr. Hershey, who was introduced by Mrs. Oscar Bodley, played two accordion solos and his daughter, Nancy, sang a solo, "Dwelling."

A potluck supper was served preceding the service with Mrs. Sara Rogers and Mrs. Walter Penry serving as hostesses.

Even the thin air at heights of 70 to 80 miles heats meteors to incandescence.

Col. Hooper Speaks At Grange Meeting

Guest speaker at a meeting of United Grange Thursday night at Claridon school was Col. D. Lee Hooper of the Marion Engineer Depot who spoke on the benefits of military training. During the social hour, a miscellaneous shower was held for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Showers who were recently married. Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. H. Foos, Mr. and Mrs. R. Maxim and Mr. and Mrs. A. Ruth.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Modest forward inclinations were displayed by selected stocks today although many market leaders backed into losing ground.

Wall Street was cheered by the House vote on the Republican tax reduction bill but it was realized that the senate has yet to deal with this legislation.

Slowdowns eventuated after a fairly active start. Fractional irregularity ruled near midday.

In the resistant area were Douglass Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Kennecott, American Tobacco "B," Paramount Pictures, United Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines and Pennsylvania railroad.

On an initial block of 2,000 shares General Motors was off ⅝. Hesistant were Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel, Northern Pacific, Illinois Central, Montgomery Ward, Johns-Manville, American Woolens, Texas Co. Standard Oil (NJ) and Sinclair Oil.

Delaware Auto Dealer Begins Term in Prison

By The United Press

DELAWARE, Feb. 3—Robert E. Stout, Delaware automobile salesman, will enter the Ohio penitentiary in Columbus tomorrow to begin serving a two to 10 year sentence following his conviction of fraud.

Stout was convicted here for selling two 1947 model automobiles without transferring certificates of title. The titles, originally mortgaged under a financing system used by dealers to purchase autos from the factory, were held by a Columbus finance company.

The charge against Stout was brought by the state bureau of motor vehicles.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE. Wearing an Indian turban, Russel K. Haight, Jr., 25, an ex-GI, is pictured as he arrived at LaGuardia Airport, New York. For two months he served as a brigadier general in the Free Kashmir Rebel Army. An attempt on his life prompted him to leave India.

YOUTH FOR CHRIST MARKS ANNIVERSARY

250 Attend Service Observing Third Year Here.

The third anniversary of the founding of Marion Youth for Christ was observed at a meeting Saturday night at the Masonic hall with about 250 present. Special numbers were by musicians from Detroit, Mich. The speaker was Rev. Spencer DeJong of Chicago, returned recently from a trip abroad. In keeping with the "birthday" idea, a feature of the early part of the service was the display of a large decorated cake with three candles. Dr. C. E. Hershey, director, presided, and Rev. R. A. Maugans led singing. Pianists were Miss Louise Caldwell and Mrs. J. W. Baker.

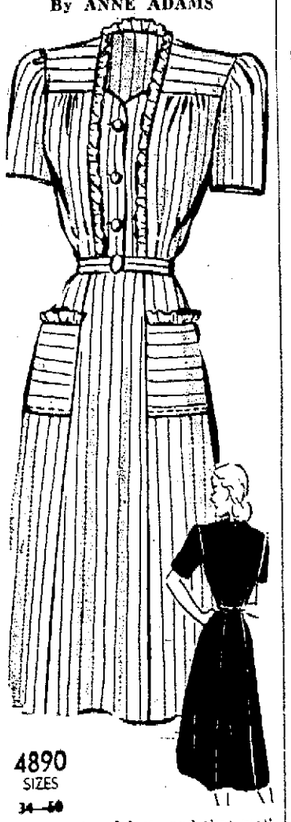

Rev. DeJong's message was presented with a view of giving a world picture of conditions both physical and spiritual which affect all people. He said in part, "The time here on earth is short, and what we do will have to be done quickly. If you do not care to give your share in getting the Gospel into Europe, you will not have any in America. Countries are calling for help. But all the starvation and horror of the prison camps there cannot be compared to the horror of a soul which has not been liberated from sin."

During the musical part of the service preceding the message, numbers were presented by a trio, the Singing Strings, composed of Misses Nancy and Ruby Liechti and Marilyn Palm, accompanied by Miss Virginia Wasey. A violin solo was played by Miss Ruby Liechti, then she and her sister presented a duet selection. The Gospelaires, a quartet composed of Jack Rollings, Leon Anderson, Gerald Nuznoff and Paul Nelson, sang. Later, the young people from Detroit gave testimonies. Announcement was made concerning a special program being planned for the February Youth for Christ meeting.
